You Guys Finally Made It To Sega. What Do You Say?

It's about time... so chill!

Sounds like a sweet deal!

Sounds great! ...How 'bout a hug?

The mayhem continues as this carnival-gone-bonkers takes their hugely successful show to your SEGA™ GENESIS™ System. They'll be kicking and screaming all the way as Bad Master Frosty and the mischievous mob smack it out in ClayFighter™, the hilarious head-to-head action fighting game. Let the clay fly as huge clay animated characters come to life in this major 16-Meg cart.

NO MORE STREET FIGHTER III

We received our finished copy of Super Street Fighter II just the other day and of course everybody in the office gathered around waiting for their turn to play. After a couple of hours, the crowd cleared and the game just sat there. Noticing that, I asked everybody what they thought about the new version. The consensus was that it was OK, but it was just another version of SF2. Granted it is the best SF2 to date, but considering that it is the third time Capcom is redoing the game, they expected perfection.

The question I have is do we really need another revised and improved SF2? Judging by our staff's opinions in addition to the tons of letters we have already received from our readers, the answer seems to be no. Granted, if you are a street fighting fanatic, you will go out and buy the cart no matter what anybody says. But if you are an average player, you probably will be very disappointed after you play it for a while. At best I recommend that you rent it. Try the new characters and then decide if you want to spend the $70 to $80.

We don't think it's worth that kind of money. The problem is until the players stop buying the countless let's-mess-a-couple-chengs-and-ceil-it-super sequels, the companies will just keep on creating out version after version. For example, do you really think that Capcom of Japan isn't working on a Super Turbo version? It's just not Capcom that does a lot of sequels. One can't forget EA's long list of Madden or NHL games. Or check any game list and look at the games with numbers in the titles. There are quite a few.

Gaming magazines are also guilty of perpetuating the sequel phenomenon. If you look at all of the reviews of Super SF2, you'll see a lot of smiling faces and near perfect numerical evaluations. I believe that these reviewers are missing the point of what a review is all about. Games aren't cheap and kids have to save up quite a while to get enough money for their next cart. I don't want to be the one who gives a 96 to a game which has a play time of less than one day before it is shelved because the player found out too late that the game is not much more than a cosmetic update of a game he already has. There has to be a better method of game evaluation.

So where do we stand? In our reviews we are going to start taking into account this type of excessive game program repetition in sequels. We're not an easy task as it is going to be subjective at first. Our goal is to take the "average" player into consideration. The one who already has an SF2 Turbo or a Madden '94. The player only buys a few games in a year and is not a person who has to have every sequel that comes out. Is this being excessively harsh on the "sequel companies"? We don't think so. Take Super SF2 for example, I do not want to again fall back on the game reviewers in the weekly Japanese magazine—Famitsu. How did they rate Super SF2? Obviously, as they give—Famitsu Tauschen. How did they rate Super SF2? Must do every game. For the first time we are seeing 7's in their Super SF2 multi-person review. More importantly, their arcade player Taco-X (who arguably is the best judge of arcade conversions), was one of those who gave it a 7!

What do you think, are we off-base with our low numbers, or has Street Fighter II finally run out of steam?

LETTER OF THE MONTH!

WHICH SYSTEM IS BETTER?

My friend Mike and I always have arguments over which is better, Genesis or Super NES. I say Genesis, because of its games. Some of which may suck, but usually the games kick butt. Mike always comes up with something like, "But Nintendo has some odd number of colors!" or "It just has better graphics," and "The Super NES version is better than the Sega version!"

I just [looked at] the March issue of EGM and read the articles about what Sega is coming out with and how they are beating Super NES.

I want you people to try to settle this argument, find out from top people, kids, parents, whatever... which is better? Genesis or Super NES?

Kyle Koster
Wheat Ridge, CO

(Ed: This is an age-old question. The fact is that there is no answer. If you enjoy the games on one system more than the other, then of course you're going to think it is better. All systems have their share of substandard games, if goes with the territory. The Super NES performs the best with fighting games, arcade translations, RPGs, and side-scrolling adventure games. The Genesis excels in the area of sports, action games, and shooters. If you're a fighting game maniac, then the Super NES is a good choice. If you like sports games, then the Genesis is your system. The Genesis loses out in arcade translations, however, because that type of game demands colors and sounds that the Genesis, unfortunately, doesn't have. Both companies stress their good points, and Sega releases a lot of sports and action games, because they know that the Genesis is best suited to handle these types of games. Not that the Super NES doesn't do a fine job. Nintendo releases games that take advantage of the Super NES' capabilities, like Mario Kart, Super Metroid, and Zelda. So, I guess the answer is, they're both good—it just depends on the games you like to play.)

Super Method is a Super NES-only title that features lots of adventure.

WIN A PAIR OF ACCLAIM JOYSTICKS!

The best letter submitted each month will win either choice of either the Super NES or Genesis version of Acclaim's hot, new Dual Turbo Wireless Remote System.

NINTENDO QUESTIONS

What I want to know is, why all the games like World Heroes 2 and Samurai Shodown were never put on the Super NES or Game Gear? Why is everybody putting down Nintendo, I mean Sega's Mortal Kombat has hardly any sound, the graphics are blurry, and the only reason they're making money is because of the blood and fatalities? This isn't the only game that's missing out. Don't get me wrong or annoyed, in fact I think the Sega CD is an awesome system. Will Mortal Kombat II ever come to the Super NES, and will it have all the original fatalities, blood, background, sound, and graphics? I know you guys at EGM will let us game players know about it. Is it true Nintendo is making a CD system of their own? I wonder if Nintendo and Sega will team up and make a joint system. It will be the talk of the century. Keep up the magazines, they're great!

Kevin Garcia
Jacksonville, FL

(Ed: Samurai Shodown and World Heroes 2 are coming to the Super NES later this year from Takara. MKII for the Super NES has everything in it. Nintendo shelled plans for a CD. A team-up? Not likely.)

HOW DO I PROMOTE MY 'ZINE?

I am a soon-to-be fanzine editor and have run into but one problem: I don't know how to advertise nationwide! I realize that there are several lists of fanzines (with their prices and addressee) similar to that of your January 1993 TurboForce article (vol 5), but as of now, I don't know how to get my fanzine on any of those lists.

So, if you could just suggest a few, I would be very thankful. Thanks again for your help (which, by the way, I could not do my mag without!) and your time.

Tom McQuill II
Quakertown, PA

(Ed: There are lists available, but the best way to get your fanzine known is to send it to other fanzine editors. Write them a letter in advance, telling them you'd like to trade with them, and see if they'll promote your new 'zine in their. You may also want to send a copy for review in Fandom Central in EGM. You don't have to spend money advertising if word of mouth works just as well.)

NINTENDO MANIFESTO

What is this? You are always putting Sega down. Why is this? I'm really ticked off! Every Genesis game usually gets poor ratings. I saw the ratings for World Series Baseball: 8, 7, 8, 7, 6. That really made me mad, it should have at least gotten straight Bs. But do you really want to know what makes me mad? The ad for the Super NES smashing. It asks which system has a European Porcupine (Sonic) for a mascot. What in the [Ed: —tymes with 'at'] kind of question is that? That porcupine could rip Mario to shreds. And the ratings for Street Fighter II CE for Genesis are all wrong. My brother has the game and just because it doesn't have the color and sound the Super NES has, doesn't mean it's a bad game. That ticks me off! The control is excellent and the moves are easy to do. And unlike the Super NES, you don't have to do a trick to get 10 stars and it has a group battle. And every kid I know has a Genesis. And at least Genesis has a rating system and blood on their games instead of sweat, like on the Super NES. The sales are 63% (Sega), 37% (Super NES). Oh, in issue 58, the new Game Boy is a stupid idea. Because if you own a different system because Super NES how is it going to

A S Y L U M

LETTER OF THE MONTH!

If you think you have what it takes to contribute to society, go write to Newsweek. If however, you have a thought or opinion that fellow gamers would particularly find crazy, we'd love to feature it with a special edition EGM T-shirt proclaiming your fondness of and psychosis to video game!

Dear EGM,

I have been a loyal reader and subscriber since your very first year and always thought you guys were the greatest, until now! I have recently uncovered evidence of a conspiracy of epic proportions. Not since JFK has something this big happened! I have always felt strong while playing SFII at my local arcade when I saw Blanka. Then I discovered through ultra-secret sources that Blanka and boxing promoter DON KING are actually twins separated at birth! Shame on you guys for firm-fuzzing your loyal readers. I was unsure of this theory until I strained my eyes to see this horror in issue 51. Save this kind of stuff for your April Fool's issue! Rest assured that 60 Minutes has been applied.

Thanks go out to Ashley Speight of Rockingham, NC, for this startling SFII revelation. Ashley will be receiving an EGM T-shirt and the satisfaction of knowing that Blanka and Don King have been reunited. Family photo everyone!

work? I own a Genesis and a Game Boy and I will not spend more money to go and buy a Super NES and a new Game Boy. And which system has a CD? Genesis. I'm sorry, but Genesis is the better system. Oh, and do you know when SSFII Turbo is supposed to be out?

Ian Derksen
Clovie, NM

(Ed: First off, a reviewer's opinion is another person's opinion of the game. Yours obviously differs, and that's fine. The Genesis version of SFII CE got three Bs and a D in the November 1993 issue (#52). The blood argument will soon be irrelevant, because both systems have it in MKII. Your sales figures are a bit messed up. According to recently published sources, the market share is just about 50/50 in your area, maybe everyone you know owns a Genesis, but that may not be true in other parts of the country. Do any of your Genesis-owning friends also own a Super NES? The Super Game Boy, which you mention as a Nintendo-made peripheral only for the Super NES. It is interesting that you mention the Sega CD, yet you also say you don't own one. What's the difference then if they have one or not? Going back to the Letter of the Month, you seem to like sports games, and you own a Genesis. You don't need to give any other reason why you like the Genesis. Why trash the other system just because you don't own it? Maybe if you sat down and tried it, you'd like some of the games. Sit down and play the other system's games before you bash! Sometimes you'll find that a few of the other system's games are ones that you feel are great. If there's a game you like, maybe look for a version of it coming to your system. If there isn't a possibility of it coming over, then there's no better time to invest in another 16-bit system than now. System prices have dropped dramatically over the past few months, and with store sales and promotions, you could easily pick up one of the 16-bit systems for a cool $80. That's not much more than the price of a game, and you'll be able to pick and choose a library of the best games for each of the systems. Then you can't lose. Some rental stores rent out systems, so try that. Or if you have a buddy that has the 'other' system, trade with him/her. They'll see the good games for your system, and you'll see the hits for theirs.)

HIGHLY JAMMABLE

We think that NBA Jam is an excellent game. A few things could be changed or added to make it a good game great. Below is a list of what we think the sequel to NBA Jam should be like:

- 1) Title: NBA JAM II—The Ultimate Jam 2)
 - 2) There should be different dunks for different players.
 - 3) More spectacular dunks when a player is "on fire" than when he is not.
 - 4) More challenging game play—better AI.
 - 5) Three players to choose from, but you can choose only two to play as in the game.
 - 6) Play as all-time greats (retired players), with or without the use of a code 7)
 - 7) More enthusiastic announcements with better sayings.
 - 8) Amateurs say, "Nice shot" and "Way to go" after you make a difficult shot.

The blood will be intact in all versions of Mortal Kombat II.

(Ed: When Mortal Kombat II is released for the home systems in September, the blood will be present in all versions. That means that Nintendo has changed their guidelines to go along with the new industry-wide rating system. I don't think complaints about the blood pressured them into changing—I believe it was sales of the first Mortal Kombat cartridge. If the blood had been in the Super NES version, you're right, it would have outsold the Genesis one. If the senators thought that the original Mortal Kombat was bad, wait until they catch a glimpse of this! There's no doubt more media coverage will be forthcoming on this hot sequel! Speaking of which, if you're an MK fan, you might want to check out Mortal Kombat—the Album. It's different than the CD single, and it has techno tracks named after each of the Mortal Warriors. The CD booklet also has artwork from the forthcoming comic book. Samples from the game mixed in with techno beats beats. Pick it up at your favorite music store.)

What will the sequel to NBA Jam be like? These guys have got some ideas.

(Ed: You guys have some great ideas here. Maybe Midway will add these features in to their next Jam arcade game, and, of course, the home versions! Maybe they would want to release a special update just for home play?)

WHAT SHOULD THEY IMPROVE?

We name a game that doesn't already have a sequel, and you send in ideas on what you'd most like to see. Don't make it too lengthy, just jot down ideas, and we'll draw a few from the pot.

This month, we turn to an old friend. The game that I'm just can't get enough of it's Nintendo's Super Mario Kart, a fantastic game that we think rightfully deserves a sequel. Got any ideas, readers? Send them along to us and we'll collect a list of the best and print them! INTERACTIVE MAGAZINE, I love it!

LAST ACTION 'HAMMER BROS.'

I would like to let your readers know about my recent decision to part with all of my Nintendo hardware and software. I'm an adult in my late 20s who has owned a Super NES since the system was originally released. I was satisfied with the games until Nintendo started up with their fascist censorship policy and began to butcher their games. Nintendo's attitude of not caring about what the customer wants to see, and still expecting us to run out and buy their "toned-down" rubbish, makes me immensely sad to say the very least.

That alienation, along with the desire for better games, prompted me to buy an Atari Jaguar. I've owned my Jag since it became available, and have nothing but praise for the hardware and software. I also feel good about seeing "Made in the USA", and "Printed in the USA" on Atari products.

Atari is not going to censor their games, and they now have a multitude of third party vendors about to deliver a deluge of awesome games including Wolfenstein 3-D, and Doom. Since I received my copy of Tempest 2000, I have sold all of my Nintendo carts, and the money from said sales will be going into a Jag CD-ROM system when one becomes available.

Not wanting to propagate the Nintendo obscenity further than necessary, I destroyed my Super NES deck with a sledgehammer, and left it outside to rust in pieces.

To close this letter I wish to state for the record: I will never give Nintendo another penny. Their Project Reality that is alleged to be in development is supposed to be cutting-edge hardware. Who cares? If you can't play the kind of games you want to on it, the system is useless.

Buy Atari. Quite simply, they are the best. And Editor, why is EGM #54 the only issue with the Jag on the top of your front cover? Better put it back to let people know you guys support the Jag!

John Brennan
Menden, CT

(Ed: You say you bought the Super NES when it first came out, and then bought the Jag when it was released, and trashed your Super NES. Did you own any system before the Super NES? Any new system is going to need time to gather a software library. The games you mentioned are not released yet! You also say that you can't wait for the CD-ROM. What if that never does become a reality? Just because it's been announced does not mean it will reach your hands. Example: the Super NES GD-ROM. I believe you made a mistake by trashing your old system in favor of the new one. When you throw out the old one, you're putting all your energy into the new one. If games aren't released fast enough, you're probably going to get impatient. Just because new hardware is released, it doesn't mean you should destroy your older system(s). If you hold onto it, then you'll have something to play if your new system dies. Seeing the "Made in the USA" logo doesn't mean that all of the parts are made in the USA. The

MORTAL KOMBAT II

For the Atari Jaguar

Why not start off with something that a lot of you have included in your letters: Williams Entertainment is an Atari Jaguar licensee, and Williams owns Midway, and Midway makes Mortal Kombat II for the arcade. Could it mean? GASPI that MKII on the Jaguar could become a reality soon? Here's the address of two companies you can write in an effort to persuade them to make this game on the Jaguar. Tell them why you'd like to see it:

Williams Entertainment
2400 So. Hwy. 75
Corsicana, TX 75101

OR
Atari Corp.
1196 Borregas Ave.
Sunnyvale, CA 95040

Atari Jaguar is made up of parts which are manufactured in other areas, not necessarily the U.S. The Jaguar is assembled in North Carolina, at IBM's plant. Atari is also adopting the industrywide using system that will be introduced this fall. There aren't enough games out yet to make the judgment that Atari's going to censor or not censor their games, although it's safe to say that they won't. Nintendo has let a lot of people down with promises of GD-ROM technology and 32-Bit and 64-Bit systems. No one knows what they've got going. For all we know, Nintendo may actually have hardware that will blow everyone out of the water. Nintendo isn't letting any secrets out, and that's good. They should definitely stop sending out messages that they have this or that in development, when they know very well that they don't. Releasing the Project Reality now would kill Nintendo's Super NES work, and it would jeopardize their future. Some with Sega's Saturn. If they release it now, they'll jeopardize the Genesis and its popularity. That's why Sega's got the 32X. Maybe Nintendo will have an upgrade as well.

NEW SYSTEM WOE

A few months ago, I was happy. There were only a few good game systems out on the market, and they could all do basically the same things. But now, things have changed and I'm miserable. Several new systems have come out, each claiming that they have new and better technology that the others lack. I'm confused. Most of the new systems out there look like they have potential, but which ones are going to become popular and successful, and which ones are going to fail? I'm the type of person who likes to keep up with the gaming industry, but I don't want to go out there and buy an expensive system only to find out six months later that they've stopped making games for it. I realize that in this case, it's hard to predict the future, but in your opinion, what game system out there has the most potential? Or should I just wait a few months until systems like Sony's PS-X come out before I purchase a new game system? Help!

Nathan Fountain
Plymouth, MI

(Ed: The choices are getting harder and harder as more and more systems are announced and released. The way that you can decide on a next generation system is by spending the time to try it. The major video game retail outlets (Babbage's, Electronics Boutique, Software Etc.) have demo tapes of these systems in action which you may want to check out. Other electronics stores have demo machines set up for customers like yourself to try the system out before plunking down a stack of cash. Play the games and look at the other choices. A good selection of already released games and assurance that more are on the way doesn't hurt either. Talk to the people who work at the store, and call the customer service lines. Get information on each system by reading it in this magazine. Do whatever it takes, but I would strongly suggest sleeping on it before you dive in. No one can guess as to which systems will fail or succeed. The systems that have interested developers with the technology are usually a safe enough bet. But then again, wait for games to be on the shelves before you buy a system. I took the Super NES a while to get games out, and once it did, the system did well. The story is the same for the Genesis.

The only thing you have to lose playing Stunt Race FX.

Hold on to your Salisbury steak. This is gonna be the wildest ride since Aunt Bert used to drive you to swim class.

It's Stunt Race FX. The out-of-control racing game where you'll feel every turn in your gut. Unless, of course, your gut's still back on the last hill.

That's because you've got a Super FX chip under the hood. Big whoop, you say? Well, try saying

FX that when you're hurtling off a 3-D cliff at 130 mph or a flying boulder looks like it's about to land in your lap. You might say, "OHNOOOO!!!" or "OHMAHGAH!!!!" But we doubt you'll say, "Big whoop."

GO FOR SPEED, BATTLE HEAD-TO-HEAD OR JUST WASH SOME AIR. AND FORGET EVERYTHING YOU LEARNED IN DRIVERS ED.

And there's other wacky, weird stuff. In Stunt Race FX, you can pick your race, pick your vehicle, and pick one of 24 tracks—with hills, banked curves, tunnels, wild jumps—you name it. (The other guy's newest game has only 3 tracks, so about all you get to pick is your nose.)

But you gotta have a Super NES. And maybe an iron gut. So c'mon, what do you have to lose?

Well, besides that.

GAME OF THE MONTH

Game Boy Nintendo

Donkey Kong

Action Now

Levels: N/A N/A

ED SEMRAD

Boy, this one brings back memories. All the fun of the arcade is here, plus a whole lot more Donkey Kong game features, including a new action, cool new characters, and a new score levels and more. The Super Game Boy has done it enough now good enough. On the plus side Game Boy just for the TV, it really looks! I'm buying a Super Game Boy just for the remake of the old classic.

AL MANUEL

This game caught my totally by surprise! As the first title for the Super Game Boy, I am very impressed with the art of color in the game. It's amazing I like the character. And like all Mario games, DK has some of the best. The many new levels are welcome. The only reason I give a lower score is that it's not as impressive on a Game Boy, even though it's still very good. I like this a lot!

DANYON CARPENTER

Welcome to the biggest surprise hit of the year. I had no idea that this game could offer so much in such a little package. Donkey Kong brings back the best aspects of the original while introducing new features. Making the game over so tough color definitely adds to the score. The game looks like it will fire on the old GB. Great job Nintendo! It looks as if you're selling plenty of Super Game Boy's for this.

SUSHI-X

Good old Sushi has tipped his hat! I actually enjoyed a Game Boy cart. This I played it on the Super Game Boy color, but the end-of-the-year Donkey Kong plays great on the GB. The levels and even the graphics were faithfully reproduced. As for the graphics, I think you have how close it looks to the original. I still can't believe I like a Game Boy cart, but then again I wasn't on a green screen.

MAJOR MIKE'S GAME ROUNDUP

Breath of Fire

Square Soft/Super NES

The folks at Square (Final Fantasy, Secret of Mervia) know a good game when they see it. They did RPG fans a great favor by buying this game from Capcom of Japan and bringing it to the States. Even if you are not a big fan of these kinds of more deliberately-paced strategy games (as I am), you'll still get hooked on this one! This game has hours of play involved, and just when you think you've played it completely, something new pops up! Excellent graphics and sound (the music is a nice touch) make this a winner.

Air Strike Patrol Sets/Super NES

This military simulator is a bit like the attack-chopper Descent Strike and Jungle Strike games from Electronic Arts: a slanted perspective where you must guide your aircraft through several missions. Veteran players of these kinds of flying games will immediately take to it, but for others it will take practice to get the game control down. Being a jet, you may have to make several passes to cover a target in order to destroy it. Still, the climax is well done (the B-1B here is a nice touch), and there are plenty of weapons to use.

World Heroes 2 Tekura/Super NES

The NewGen simulator continues with another excellent conversion of an arcade game to the Super NES platform. One advantage of this version is the ability to play as the Boss character (especially Neo Geiger, who can morph into any fighter). The speed setting is nice a plus (the fast speed setting is pretty fast) and the tag-of-war Survival Matches (with various hazards in play) appear to have been retained from the arcade. Some moves could have used a bit more animation (like Heron and Puzner's apparatus). Overall it's a terrific translation.

8 7 8 8 8
ES BAMB AL ESTIM NICE

I'm getting a little tired of having to buy a new SF game every year. Sure this game has four new characters and a nifty Toumanai gimmick, but why get this one if you can wait a year for the next one? Super SF II plays like the old before, but the voice acting is terrible and the graphics aren't a touch-up. Capcom needs to totally redo this game to get my interest back. It's just more of the same.

As much as I hate to do this, I cannot give this game an outstanding score. Why? It's simple: It's not a good SF2 again, just for new characters and a couple of new moves. Oh sure, the game plays good, if not better, than the Turbo and the four additional characters add a bit more "punch" but I'm already bored. Enough is enough. Alright dear, let's see if we can cut to three 1, 2... sorry!

YES! Another game continuing the SF series. The graphics are the best they have ever been and the sound is terrific! The addition of new playing modes makes the game even cooler! Too bad it's not a touch. Let's face it—although I like SFF2, I have to admit it's a bit frustrating to have to go back to another SF game every year and it's not the best game. Oh no! Capcom! Let's get it out next year... please!

As the fighting aficionado, I have to admit that this is the best fighting card this far. Still, I can't help but long for a real challenge, not just four new characters. The additional characters to try, but I'm looking forward to go all the way to the number 3. Fighting is a game I'm familiar with the mechanics of it. It plays and looks as good as you'd expect. Is there enough new stuff to go by it? Well, you decide.

Super Godzilla does a good job of giving you the feel of the movies, but it moves very slow. Most players will probably get frustrated by the monotony, especially Balth. You can only hit it with a certain distance, and it keeps you away. The graphics are good, and the music has some very terrible tones. If you are looking for action, you'll be disappointed by SG, but fans of the movies will probably eat it up.

Once again, rubber monsters threatening the city don't excite me. If you're looking for a fast-paced action game, you'd better look really far because Godzilla is a military strategy-type game, and although it's a dig strategy game, I can't think (ZZZ) of a sleep-inducing game. Even if you manage to stay awake and make it to a battle, you'll get sick of it by the barrage of cheap hits that you can't seem to avoid.

If I were to rate this game by how exciting it is, I would probably need to request some Vivian. The pace of the game is very slow especially in the scenarios where you must guide the big green monster through fields, and other battles are just to find power-ups. Well, and when you get to the game, it turns into a fighting scene that really isn't one. It's more of a strategy game. It just didn't keep my interest.

I like the whole Godzilla thing, but the game seemed to move a bit slow. The walking scenes seemed boring. Also, the fighting scenes with the Boss really looked like technique. I've come to enjoy in fighting cards. However, the graphics and sounds aren't that great, and if you're serious, you might be able to get into this game. I just long for more destructive control over Godzilla.

Battletech is fairly faithful to the FASA RPG/board game. The diversity of the mechas and enemies are a real sight. The One-player mode is really difficult to play, but the two-player really rocks. Most players were able to get to the next level working together with a little help. My only gripe is that you play a Clan mech, but you have no choice which one. This is one to get.

Hey, now this is pretty cool. Even though the game seems like it's meant for hardcore Battletech players, anyone could just get right into the game, but only if you've got two players. The game is really tough for one player. The strategy is based on maneuver and the challenge and fun factor do get a bit, even after many hours! Battletech will prove to be a sleeper hit among action and simulation fans.

This is one of those types of games that I just can't get into. All you do is go around a field and follow a path to blow up designated targets. An enemy computer will try to be more of a tedious game. I've got bored rather quickly. On the up side, the graphics are pretty good and I liked the overall animation of the game, even you pilot around. The many missions could satisfy those who want a long game.

This is a game you can only really appreciate with two players—by this alone and it will get rather tedious. This is a lot like Jungle Strike, but the slanted perspective and ease to attack. The levels are grossly difficult as this goes along. This is definitely not for all players, and some will obviously take to it more than others. I do think it's a must for fans of the RPG. It's a nice two-player incorporation.

Stunt Race FX

Nintendo/Super NES

Nintendo's second FX-chip based game isn't as good as I expected. It just didn't seem to have the oomph that the SuperFX did. It features four racers that have noticeably different handling characteristics so the players among you will be happy. The variety of tracks also prove to be challenging. However, the game feels awkward with the touchy steering and the feeling of speed just isn't there. Overall, there are better racing games on the market. It's just too bad since I had high expectations for it.

Art of Fighting Sega/Genesis

One of the key features of the Neo-Geo version of this fighting game was the zoning in and out during combat. That effect isn't in this version (I didn't notice it was gone until it was pointed out to me), but otherwise this is identical to the arcade (even the onscreen between fights are kept in). Most of the movement is easy enough to execute, and there are some exceptions like being able to fight five times in a row instead of the standard three. In the Venus Mode, some fighters have an unfair advantage (like Kainan), but overall, this is an excellent conversion.

Fatal Fury 2 Takara/Genesis

All the fighters, all the stages, and extra options set in the arcade (like a special setting that makes the character fire conversion of a NeoGeo title. Little details like the guy you can knock off the motorcycle in Kim Kapahwan's stage when you reach level 5 are retained, as have the left-ditch finishing moves. However, the sounds could be improved (especially the dizzy sound effect and some of the voices). This is the type of game that can truly be appreciated with a 3-button controller. Excellent opening cinematics though.

Brutal

Fighting Release: Now

Levels: N/A CD-ROM

Brutal is visually very impressive, using lots of colors and detail to make it stand out. The music is terrific, and the arenas are the best for a 3D CD. I like the way you can zoom up to see your abilities as you pass through the general area. The sound is very well thought out, especially the lighting and the sound effects. You can rely on jump kicks, rather than techniques. Still, Brutal is a cool game that has unique elements.

Brutal throws some new ideas into the over-crowded fighting game world. The concept of having to defeat your opponents to learn special abilities is novel, but may be too strange for the casual fighting game crowd. The CD music is simply excellent, and the arenas are certainly a nice added touch. Also, the game suffers from quick timing. What could have been a hot contender, will have to settle for a lower rank.

From the get-go, I was in total awe of the opening cartoon sequence and other cool details of the game. The Venus animations are a nice character touch. I'm a Select Season. Very original, but since I got to the game, I really let it down by the playing control. The fighters are colorful, colorful and it seemed unresponsive. Maybe the whole CD should have been a cartoon from the beginning.

I have to admit to loving the look of this game. From the opening cinematic to the cute animal fighters, the presentation is eye-popping. It only got dented when I learned the strategy of learning special moves and the elaborate story and philosophy behind the game. The presentation itself plays a bit sluggish, and the reaction time needs to be a bit tighter. It plays like a real opening match, but gamers may not be used to this

SNK Neo-Geo

Top Hunter

Action Release: Now

Levels: 5 110 Meg

Top Hunter is a spectacular looking game loaded with lots of techniques and power-ups. This game gives you the opportunity to play in both the foreground and the background, similar to Fatal Fury. The background sound is simply fantastic, and the music is only one of the things that makes the game so great that you can't look through it rather quickly. However, it's great as a one-shot deal. It's fun, but too expensive.

As with all Neo games, it's easy to get suckered in by the outstanding graphics and sound. But Top Hunter does a little better than power looks. It's a bit of a slow power look, but it's a nice choice for purchasing the game. However, find lots of fun things to learn, strange power-ups, defeat, and excellent sound effects. But the difficulty, even on the hardest setting, is still way too easy. It's a good quarter-muncher, though.

Hey! A Neo-Geo game that isn't a fighting game! Anyway, the graphics are awesome and superbly detailed with plenty of color and animation. The background music is also an orchestrated well to the game. The sound effects are especially the best, and the very responsive. Even though it has these things going for it, the whole concept wasn't original enough.

This game looks awesome. The characters, bosses, and backgrounds are well drawn. To accompany the look are high quality sound effects and almost perfect music. There is plenty of variety, like fireballs and dragon fire. To keep the play interesting, it boasts the famous 110-megabyte Neo fighting games. I especially like the two-player simultaneous action

3DO Electronic Arts

Shock Wave

Shooting/Shin. Release: Now

Levels: 12 CD-ROM

I was amazed by this game. I'd been expecting some cheap 3D illusion game, but this is one hot title. The graphics look so soft like a movie. The graphics of the action are hard to be seen. Plus, you can see you work well. The game video is smooth and the sound gives the game a real feel. This game is a must if you have a 3DO. I think you'll be as surprised as I was. It's an experience!

Here's another wild shooting bonzo for the 3DO! The first thing anyone will notice is the attention to detail in the opening cinematic with, despite the good acting. The game has a nice balance between action and intensity. It's a real coming back for more. The story of the 3DO fighting game has tough controls (maybe it's true for all the after-market controller), but it's nothing a little time can't solve.

Shock Wave is an impressive title. Even though I don't like full-motion video in games, I really liked how it was used in this title. It became more than an addition to the game; instead, it was the whole emphasis. The graphics are very good as are the music and sound. What you expect from CD? The shooting I don't like is the sensitive control while trying your stuff. It takes some time to get used to, but it's not bad!

I normally don't get into the fight simulator types, but this one did have impressive button mapping and good graphics. The live-action video clips were quite well done and really added to the hype of the game. My only complaint is that the controls seemed too sensitive and a bit too much. Yet, it does play well and has the ability to switch unless a linear one-direction light set. The game's great for its category.

Top Working Designs/Sega CD

From Working Designs (Lionel: The Silver Gear) comes another RPG that should keep fans of the genre more than happy. This one contains huge areas to explore, plenty of comrades to help you, and excellent cinematics (courtesy of the CD technology). However, the story just isn't that unique (since your love who was kidnapped when you were about to tie the knot, to cite one objection). Games you aren't necessarily RPG nuts may not be drawn to the SR, but it's nice to see more games like this for the system. It has excellent music.

Who Shot Johnny Rock? America Laser Games/CD-I

Unless you have the American Laser Games Game Gun, you won't get your fix in this movie-the-guns-and-shoot game (it was the case in the market Mad Dog McCree)—the control pad is just too slow. For the 3DO system, Johnny Rock suffers from inexplicably substandard graphics (the images are so blurry you can't tell what's going on at times) and frustrating game play. There is plenty of action and the����� aspect of the game is welcome, but the technical aspects hamper the overall product.

Mega Man V Capcom/Genesis Boy

Will the Mega Man series ever end? This latest entry into the never-ending saga has the typical huge levels and formidable Bosses with unique powers. There are plenty of weapons and other items, and one can't help but wonder how they can keep cranking these Mega Man empires out and maintain such a level of creativity. This new entry has a few twists to the Mega Man story and for a real treat by using the Super Game Boy peripheral (especially with the opening). Fans of the first four portable entries will appreciate this one.

Microcosm

Shooter	Release: New
Levels: 3	CD-ROM

While this is a definite improvement over the Sega CD version in terms of color and animation, Microcosm isn't all that fun to play. The game play leaves much to be desired and the number of enemies is almost never-ending. The computer-rendered animation and graphics are really neat, but they don't make a game. I'm sorry, but Microcosm didn't seem like fun to me. It needs more to it, I guess.

Microcosm can be considered an improvement over the Sega CD version, if you rely on your eyes only. The video is cleaned up immensely and the pretty video doesn't make a difference. This is simply average stuff with a boring, repetitive and dull scenery (what's in a sorb or a capillary?). There are better 3DO games to be found. But if you want to experience it all, Microcosm just doesn't thrill me.

Even though the 3DO games have been getting better, I can't believe that this game is among them. Microcosm is nothing more than bullet-riddled and pre-determined paths for the player to plod through with no interaction at all. All you have to do is ship up, open, kill, and repeat until an enemy while avoiding obstacles. It's just not fun. The graphics and sound are very good, but they don't make the game.

I don't get the idea of this game. The concept may be good for a movie, but the repetitive backgrounds and the challenging game play aren't the fun of this one. While it does look better than the Sega CD version, but the scenery is repetitive. The action is boring and simple four-way movement. The graphics and sounds are impressive, but it doesn't play very well. It doesn't have enough action for me.

Dragon's Lair

Adventure	Release: New
Levels: N/A	CD-ROM

Dragon's Lair is a near exact tribute to the original coin-op DL, plus it has a few new graphic elements and sound. The graphics quality is still the way way, if you've played the arcade, or any of the other versions, you'll notice that nothing has been changed, but I don't know quite why. This isn't the game to show off to your friends if you have a CD-I. It's good, but the timing needs help.

4 4 4 4 4

This is the best playing, best looking, best overall home version of Dragon's Lair out there—period! The digital video is absolutely superb and the audio tracks are superb, as while during advertisement work is a lot of ramp the level levels of mayhem. I can never take it upon myself to play this game, you oughta smack yourself! The one drawback is that the replay value is easily diminished.

This version of the laserdisc arcade classic is without a doubt the best version on any platform. Everything about the arcade has been done better over. All the scenes and music are here! Another thing that makes DL so good is the way you control Dirk which allows players to choose his movements with ease. On the down side, the CD access time is a nuisance breaking you away from the game too long.

This is probably the best playing version I've tried yet! Most versions of the game played really bad, but this one is more bearable. The timing will have to be tapped rapidly to make sure they are "counted" and it's accurate if you know how to play. The graphics and sounds are superb, as you'd expect from the system. Access time isn't too bad but the Sega Screen does get annoying between each level!

Genesis Sega

Sonic Spinball

Action	Release: New
Levels: N/A	4 Meg

Sonic Spinball leaves much to be desired. The graphics are dark, and the audio is poor. The game play is very simple. It doesn't control that well, so it should! The game isn't anything after a few minutes of play. There are too many levels. Once you hit the end of the flipper, you've actually have no control of where he goes; it doesn't even have the pinball feel to it. I'd pass on Sonic Spinball.

4 4 4 4 4

Pinball isn't my gig and having Sonic in there doesn't help matters much. The most noticeable problem is the too slow as it jerks as it spins around. The levels are pretty good, there's a lot to witness. While the game just isn't a whole lot of fun to play. Although the games typically don't offer much control of the game, Sonic Spinball offers even less with its poor control and boring plot line. I pass.

4 4 4 4 4

Sonic Spinball is an original concept blending elements of Sonic and pinball. Unfortunately, it falls short on fun and game play. The left flipper button is a button is a hindrance and should have been on the control pad. It was just difficult to control consistency with all the buttons. You must spend through. More than the ball seems to move to the same location when you hit it, making progress slow. AARGH!

4 4 4 4 4

I liked the Genesis version, due to its change of pace for Sonic. I've played pinball for years and enjoy its physical nature but on video it's hard to capture the "feel" of the game. The biggest pain is the flipper button being so close to the ball that it acts like the flippers. The game is a bit awkward to play. Yet, the game is a fun game with big levels. Good for pinball fans.

...Hello, my many disciples of gaming wisdom. Your master of all that is interactive is here once again to fill you with the latest behind-the-scenes info from the guru's domain. Having just returned from the CES, yours truly has pledged to fill this space with the sights and sounds of the bi-annual get-together and take you in for a trench run of the hottest softs the Windy City has ever seen, or at least wished for. Let's get it on... With the Sega war machine taking a breather now that Nintendo has been put in its place, you'd think this year's show was less than a CES Buzzzzz. Wrong answer Hanz! This CES—while different for the Q-Mirror—was transitional in almost every respect, ushering in the age of Hollywood big-wigs looking for the quickest on-ramp to the information/entertainment super-highway. While the Q toured the show, the big biz was going on behind closed doors where new hardware and even newer softs were keeping things in perspective for the people who are buying the games you'll be playing in the months to come... Sega's basement extravaganza was cramped, and they managed to rustle up only a few new Gen and Game Gear titles. Although the 32X looked good, only Virtua Racing Deluxe and Star Wars Arcade were even barely playable. Everything else was demo, demo, demo. Impressive, but I don't think even three games at launch will be possible. Virtua Racing Deluxe is solid, with a fully-shaded car that looked like it was pulled from the arcade... After leaving the bowels of CES, the Q overheard some people talking about Capcom and plans for a Super SF2 Turbo on the Super NES and Genesis for release this Christmas, at least in Japan. I wonder...

...Did I say Sega thrashed Nintendo? Buzzzzz. The Summer CES was 100% Nintendo domination! Not one to judge which system is better, the Quartermann couldn't help but think that Nintendo just popped the white shirts at Sega in the chops. Thanks to DONKEY KONG COUNTRY, which may be the best 16-Bit side-scroller ever created for a game system, with a nice follow-through courtesy of the Ultra 64 (does this sound like a gas or what?), Nintendo shined like they did so many years ago. Actually, the Q thought the Ultra games on display were a little short on the "Wow" factor, but take a look at some of the early Super NES games and where that system has gone since then. On second thought, look at Pilot Wings and F-Zero... Speaking of Nintendo, get set for Star Fox 2 later this year... Best line of the show: "Is that Ed's dress?"... Can the 3DOA be revived? Not if they keep getting booth space on the other side of the convention! For those who were adventurous enough to make the hike, the company dished up Off-Road Interceptor, Gex, and Samurai Shodown. But what's this? Capcom's doing Super Street Fighter Turbo on the 3DO?...

...Atari? Games that I had perceived to be complete were going buggy at the show. Atari had Doom out the first day, but removed it, because it would crash every minute or two. Ultra Vortex looks good, as does Kasum Ninja, but they need to get the games out. Look at AVP, Redline, and Club Drive. They should have been finished months ago—you've been holding onto them forever. No word on MKII, but in this issue's interface, you can try to get it started by flooding Atari and Williams with letters... The next generation of Power Gloves looks to be looming, with the Aura Interactor vest thumping your chest whenever Bionix takes a poke at your on-screen alter ego! Can you believe a defense contractor thought up the one? VR systems were all the rage, but with the notable exception of Fort's PC unit (INCREDIBLE), the rest were harder to interact with than the games you're supposed to play on them... THQ showed the Catapult modem, a device that's supposed to let you plug into your buds for some one-on-one wherever you live. The price costs the same as a game cartridge, lets you use any game, and costs only about 10 bucks a month to log on to the system... Acclaim showed some early stuff on their Alien Trilogy game that had some great synthetic actor action. They also announced that the first entry from their team-up with comic publisher Valiant would be a high-end coin-op developed around Turok: Dinosaur Hunter... Look for big changes at Virgin...

...Wrapping up the big SCES package for you, I present my picks from the 1994 SCES PICKS: Donkey Kong Country (Nintendo/Super NES), Earthworm Jim (Playmates/Shiny/Super NES & GEN), Mortal Kombat II (Acclaim/Both systems are great), Super Punch-Out!! (Nintendo/Super NES), Rambo 1/2 II: Anything Goes (Majani Arts (Toho/Super NES), Catapult's modem, and Dynamix Headdy (Sega/Gen). The real thrill of the show, was not a home game at all. Atari Games, buoyed by one of the hottest talent this side of Coordinated Universal Timezone, blew everyone away with the scorching new Primal Rage. Dinosaur meet MKII with lots of blood, venom spitting, and cave people to munch. Look for the home version sometime in '95. Why didn't I think of that...

SEGA'S SATURN: 32-BIT INTENSITY

This is a demonstration of the seaking and rotation in Daytona USA.

Sega's Saturn game system debuted at this year's Tokyo Toy Show, and got more than a few double-takes. This powerful 32-Bit system is set to take Japan by storm, and it should make its way to the U.S. soon after. With games that look absolutely amazing, Sega may have their work cut out for them.

The Saturn arcade stick looks really good. For you lighting game fans, six buttons will make all the difference. As you can see below, the stick is made to recreate the arcade experience at home.

The Saturn has not been announced in the U.S. as of this date, and Sega isn't saying a word as to when it'll become a reality. So we may be a year or so away from experiencing this futuristic system for ourselves.

Sega displayed a new six button controller for the Saturn.

Daytona USA is one of Sega's newest coin-ops, and the demo they were running was of the coin-op game. What they did show was a small Daytona demo with a car racing around a track with SEGA written everywhere. Not much for a system that will supposedly be released in Japan this November.

Virtua Fighters was still incomplete, with only about 30-40 percent actually finished. When it is finished, it is expected to be a carbon copy of the arcade game.

Clockwork Knight is a side-scrolling action/adventure title where you star as the Clockwork Knight, and you must save the rest of the toys from an evil presence. You do this by using an attack that winds down the enemy's gears. The backgrounds are nicely animated, and the characters are drawn in great detail. This is one game that will be fun to play when it does make it out.

Gail Racer made an impressive debut as well. A racer that is similar to Sega's Sega's Saturn system is here! Catchy logo, stellar name, and Sega all-over.

Clockwork Knight is side-scrolling happiness! Wind me up!

Rad Mobile, it scales and zooms with no interruption. It looks very good.

Chinese Detective is an intense super sleuth mystery game. You are the detective, and you can pick up and look at any object you want to, from any angle. Look for clues, and solve the mystery.

Blue Seed is an anime RPG that includes intense cinema screens. Will it top Lunar?

The same story for Magical Knight Grey Earth, which also uses anime cinema screens.

Rampo is an RPG as well, and it features an intense plot where vampires lurk in a rural village. The cinemas look good, but will the game be good as well?

SimCity 2000 will also be making an appearance on Sega's new machine. What they showed were shots of a PC version, but the Saturn one will be worth checking out.

SEGA-CD™ owners asked. We listened. Now, it's here...

SEGA'S SATURN GAMES GO FOR BROKE

Blue Seed is a fast-paced RPG with anime clichés.

In Chinese Detective you can pick up objects in real time.

Daytona USA is a carbon copy of the arcade.

Golf Racer is a racing game in the theme of Rad Mobile.

Panzer Dragon is the game you've been seeing for months now that has a first-person, real-time flying perspective. You look ahead, you look behind you, and there are enemies everywhere. It's shoot fast or be shot—play it to win.

Golf goes to 32-Bit in Sega's Pebble Beach Golf Links. This realistic golf game puts you in the thick of the action. Are you ready for the ultimate golfing challenge? It has great graphics, realistic maps and courses, plus digitized golfers.

Show. Full-motion battle cinemas and more Shinobi than a game player would need. It's sword-slashing action.

With all of these great-looking titles ready for action, the Saturn is sure to find a niche in the market. Sega's games were unplayable at the show, and how they expect to have more than a handful of games ready at the system's launch is beyond the imagination. If they've got the programming to carry it out, then they will most surely succeed.

If they cannot match the quality of their arcade games with the home translations, then game players will be disappointed. Sega's got to keep the games as tight and as accurate to their arcade counterparts as possible.

One of the leaders in the 16-Bit game race is finally going to make the jump to 32-Bit. Will they succeed or fail?

In Japan, gaming is a totally different market, and gamers will probably buy the first round of systems and games, but if Sega can't get the games out fast enough, like with the beginning of the Mega CD, then the Saturn will be short lived.

You can see the games here, and they all look great, but will they play as good as they look?

Everyone knows by now—Virtue Fighter!

Look at the soiling in Goll Racer. You pass under the bridge, and up onto the bridge. The camera takes you everywhere. These graphics are absolutely amazing! The Saturn has the power and capabilities to perform amazing effects. I wonder what NKE would be like on this?

Not a SimCity clone, but SimCity 2000.

Panzer Dragon is a first-person flight shooter.

RPG gaming at its very best in Magic Knight Grey Earth.

Pebble Beach Golf Links is a game for armchair athletes.

Rampo is an RPG mystery with vampires to boot.

SONY PLAYSTATION COMING TO THE U.S.

Sony's machine can rotate all of these objects.

You're getting closer to something—cubes!

This fish is so lifelike, and it's possible on the PlayStation.

This dino looks angry—all done on the PlayStation.

Newly-formed Sony Computer Entertainment has announced that the PlayStation is coming to the U.S. The system uses an advanced CPU chip set developed by LSI Logic, a world leader in high-performance semiconductors.

The PlayStation employs a 32-bit RISC processor, an advanced 3-D engine, and a decompression system, MDEC, which is based on JPEG, delivering full-motion video that is unrivaled.

The graphics engine, GPU, can generate lifelike, three dimensional images with up to 360,000 polygons per second. It can also move up to 4,000 sprites in a field. That means the PlayStation is capable of high-speed simultaneous movement of characters and high-quality backgrounds, comparable to television transmission.

"LSI Logic's enabling technology plays a major part in Sony Computer Entertainment's plan to create a dramatically advanced, high-performance video game system," said Teruhisa Tokunaka, deputy president of Sony Computer Entertainment. "Using the PlayStation CPU, the PlayStation system will claim market leadership by offering superior game play dimension, response time, and processing power."

"Integrating the various functions required for high-performance game play allows us to give Sony Computer Entertainment a performance edge in the interactive video game marketplace," said Brian Halla, executive vice president of LSI Logic's Products Group.

Sony and LSI worked closely together to get the PlayStation's CPU to perform above the rest when it comes to next-generation entertainment.

"Manying Sony's unparalleled expertise in developing consumer electronics and entertainment products with LSI Logic's innovative technological systems will result in a video game hardware product that is technologically superior to anything else planned to be on the market," said Wilfred J. Comgan, chairman and chief executive officer of LSI Logic Corp.

"The combination of the PlayStation's incredible speed and real-time processing ability makes it possible for game developers to create revolutionary titles that realize their vision for game play," added Tokunaka.

According to Sony, the PlayStation will have close to zero access time, no flicker or slowdown, and has the power to recreate arcade games perfectly. The squares and spheres in the pictures above can be rotated and moved in all different directions, with no slowdown or flicker.

With the question of a rating system on all video games soon to become a standard, will Sony use the ratings system on PlayStation games? The answer is yes, Sony will most likely go in the direction of the rest of the industry, which would create a universal rating system.

No third party licenses for the system have been announced in the U.S., but they will be soon.

In Japan, licensees such as Capcom and Namco have already signed on. Ridge Racer and Cyber Sled are both games which Namco is already developing in Japan.

Not a game, but a demo of what Sony can do.

This character may be how we look at RPG actors.

The guts of the PlayStation look pretty technical.

As the disk spins, the PlayStation accesses HUGE amounts of data.

SONY PLAYSTATION IN U.S.

With many new systems coming out in the next few months, Sony may have a bumpy road ahead of them. A price for the U.S. PlayStation has not yet been announced, but the Japanese version of the system will not go for higher than about $480.

If this price is the point at which the U.S. PlayStation will come in at, will Sony be able to become the leader? The 3DO is an example of great hardware that is priced a bit too high for the consumer market. When the Sega CD was first introduced in the U.S., it had a rocky, but OK start because of its $299 price tag. Since that time, Sega dropped the price, added a different game, and the system has sold well.

The PlayStation can produce mind-boggling effects.

The PlayStation will be one of many new systems, which include Nintendo's Project Reality and Sega's Saturn, according to Sony, and their demonstrations prove that their machine is technologically advanced. The games that they have planned in Japan, however, would not find the popularity in the U.S. that they would there.

Capcom has announced a fighting game in Japan, and Namco has Ridge Racer and Cyber Sled, which will attract arcade gamers. Are arcade gamers going to give up the quarter-doling versions for emcher ones? The feel of the arcade Ridge Racer is a unique one. It has to be brought home in a way that will satisfy the arcade gamer.

The PlayStation is a double speed CD-ROM system. CD-ROM, up until this point, has not been as fast in the access department as cartridge systems.

Sony has stated that the access time will be close to zero, as if you're playing it on cartridge.

Will third parties make the games that spell success for a new system? The 3DO has a lot of third parties but those third parties have not all made games for the system. Sony said that yes, there will be many third parties making lots of games for the PlayStation.

Can the controller go diagonally? While this isn't a really big question, it is still one that many are pondering. Shooters and action games demand a controller that can move in eight directions.

It's up to the consumer to make this system a hit. Sony has provided the gamer with superior hardware, and the games from Japan look very impressive. The demos that they showed also looked very good.

When you've seen the system perform, as with the dinosaur demo and the character that looks straight out of a Japanese RPG, you will see that this could possibly be the next really big gaming platform.

Since Sony is waiting for a good amount of Japanese arcade translations to be ready by the time of the U.S. launch, there is almost no doubt that at least more than a handful of great titles will be ready and waiting for you to step up and play. When Sony announces the third parties, and when games are playable, gamers are going to make a choice. Sony is hoping you'll choose the PlayStation. With the graphics that they showed in their demos, it looks as if the PlayStation will be a major contender. Now, what will you decide?

The system itself looks plain for a powerhouse.

Come see a 3DO® Demo.

(The other 9 chose the 3DO™ system over other home gaming systems at the 3DO Challenge.)

We invited visitors at 3DO promotional displays to check out a side by side comparison with other home gaming systems. 9 out of 10 people who completed the Challenge chose the 3DO system. (The other 1 probably still likes disco music too.) They were asked about stuff like graphics, sound quality, and hitchin'-head of play. But hey, you're a 90's guy. You don't believe everything you read. Fine. Good. Come and see for yourself then. Take the 3DO Challenge. Unless of course you're too busy watching Disco Fever reruns.

SEGA'S GENESIS 32X GAMES ARE HERE!

Metalhead is a high-tech game using huge robots.

Deadius is a space shooter with cool polygon graphics.

Star Wars Arcade comes home in true form.

Ecco the Dolphin splashes into the 32X debut.

Sega's Genesis 32X add-on is set for a fall release, and games are being revealed as you are reading this. Many of the games show off the 32X's ability to scale and rotate objects smoothly, whether they are polygon or texture mapped.

Sega expects to have six games at the launch, and 10 more released soon after. They have both 32X cartridge and CD games in development. Metalhead is a battle game where you control a huge Battlebot-type robot, and you go up against a computer opponent.

Deadius looks like a shooter, similar in theme to the hit Sega CD game, Splatoon. If it plays as good as it looks, I think we're in for a treat.

Star Wars Arcade is a direct translation of the polygon shooter coin-op. Sega touted that everything present in the coin-op would be retained in the 32X version, but the demo running at the Tokyo Toy Show was presumably the arcade game.

A new side-scrolling action/adventure title called Tempo is also scheduled to be out soon after the system's release. The game is set on Planet Rhythma, where an evil space octopus named King Azolus brainwashes all of Tempo's insect friends. Tempo has CD quality sound and cartoony graphics. Sega may have a new mascot.

Super Motorcross is a game that has been announced, but hasn't been shown yet. It has 15 courses which you can race with three different classes of motorcycles. Two perspectives help you see your way to victory in this one-lighting, and shooting game in one.

Doom, the popular PC game, is making its 32X appearance as well. You must escape from endless mazes filled with deadly alien creatures and Bosses. It is expected to be one of the biggest 32X hits.

Stellar Assault is a first-person perspective shooter that features fast-paced, 3-D action. You can choose which ship you want to pilot on your missions through the universe.

Cyber Blast is a futuristic fighting game which features a rotating camera angle and multiple points of view. You'll be there as your fighter ducks away from damaged armor, flying bats, and deadly weapons. Sega says it will be the king of all fighting games.

Look at what the Genesis 32X can do—ultra smooth, super clean scaling without a hefty price tag. This is the way to play games!

player, 16-Meg racing challenge.

Speeding of racing, Sega has also announced Virtua Racing Deluxe on the 32X. It looks more defined than the Genesis version with shaded polygons and fast-paced action. Six courses and three different cars to choose from will make Virtua Racing Deluxe a must-have for racing fans.

Fahrenheit is a Sega CD 32X game, which features a full-motion video story line that is similar to that of Backdraft. You must do whatever it takes to save lives and escape burning buildings.

Midnight Raiders is also a 32X CD game, in which you pilot an AH-64 Apache Attack helicopter to rescue a government official. It's an adventure, perspective game to do very well. The classics always seem to worm their way back when a next generation system comes out. Two classic Sega games, Afterburner and Space Harrier, have been updated for the 32X. Super Afterburner will take you to new heights with realistic graphics and sound that haven't been seen on any other system to date. If you're a fan of Afterburner, watch out! Super Space Harrier sends you head first on a mission to save the inhabitants of Fantasyland. Multi-headed reptiles, space phantoms, and wicked wizards stand in your way. Are you worthy?

Tempo is a side-scrolling adventure with a hip attitude!

With the 32X not far away, what can we expect from Sega in the future? Will the 32X try to ride the list of the Genesis out until the Saturn makes its way over to these shores? Or is Sega hinting at what's to come?

Shadow of Atlantis is a 32X title that will take you down with the island.

NEO-GEO CD BRINGS ARCADE HOME

The Neo-Geo CD system was unveiled at the Tokyo Toy Show, and it looks promising. It is a stand-alone machine, so you do not have to own a Neo-Geo to purchase the system. It is designed for the home market. At the show, they were showing a demo of Fatal Fury 2. The prototype of the machine that they showed was single speed, and the load time was 14-28 seconds between rounds. You can see that the screen on the right is a load screen.

sleek, stylish, dependable. No, it's not a car, it's the Neo-Geo CD!

Fatal Fury 2 on the Neo-Geo CD.

Load time may turn out to be a problem.

Here in the U.S., SNK is considering releasing the system at an affordable price. Chad Okada of SNK commented that the system "would need to be set at a price that consumers would accept." He could not give a specific price, but he said that it should be set somewhere around $399. Mr. Okada also mentioned that "to my knowledge, it is double speed." Whether the system at the Toy Show was a quickly produced prototype is not known.

As for the titles to be released on the system, Mr. Okada said that they are porting most of their titles over to CD, with the exception of older, less popular titles. These will also be priced of an affordable range, somewhere around $50. Maybe SNK will produce collections of older titles on CD.

What about the controllers? Since this system is made for the home market, the joysticks are smaller, and easier to handle during fierce game play. Will regular pads also be available?

Mr. Okada added, "The third party companies are now really excited. Games can be made for home, arcade, or both."

SNK hits like Samurai Shodown and Fatal Fury Special will finally be open to all, and new games just for the home version will be made.

INTRODUCING VIVID3D. THE ULTIMATE IN GAME SOUND.

Get ready for the most realistic game adventure ever. The VIVID 3D™ sound enhancement system from NuReality transforms ordinary game sound into an amazing 3D sound experience. ⚡ What does "3D sound" mean? It means game sounds come alive all around you. It means you feel like you're in the front

ARCADE ACTION

PRIMAL RAGE by Atari Games

Well hello there! Good to have you all back for another installment of Arcade Action! The Arcade Man has gotten the lowdown from Atari Games on their incredible new coin-op fighting game, Primal Rage.

This one's a scorcher! You can choose from seven different creatures to help you gain full domination of "Urth," a surreal, primordial place where giant beasts roam (sounds a lot like your school, doesn't it?). Each of these seven characters possess over 70 moves including some particularly devastating special moves.

Arcade operators can choose to "tone-down" the level of gore, if they wish.

The real story with this game, however, is the stop-motion animation that Atari Games uses. When you first see Primal Rage in action, you are going to freak out! The beasts are awesome! The sound comes via the new Cage "Total Immersion Audio" system which bathes the players in a lush, full audio experience.

Time Warner Interactive, Atari Games' parent company, is planning to release Primal Rage to the consumer market sometime in 1995. Until then, go to your favorite arcade and prepare to go primal with Primal Rage!

The stop-motion animation provides the fiercest, most realistic graphics around.

Pick your character from a sizeable roster of seven possible combaters.

The special moves are only the icing on the cake! Each player has 70+ moves!

JOE & MAC RETURNS by Data East

The boys are back with another prehistoric adventure in Joe & Mac Returns.

You must club your way through each level in order to rescue the cavewomen.

Each level ends with an encounter with a deadly, but whimsical Boss creature.

There are over 70 stages in all, each with a Bonus Stage at the end.

Joe & Mac Returns by Data East is an action game featuring those two loveable cave-men! They're two reardentals with a job to do—beating up the bad guys and rescuing the cave-women.

With over 70 levels in all, this job is a lot easier said than done! Each stage pits you and a friend against a multitude of creatures like pterodactyls, triceratops, and other primitive monsters.

Control is through a joystick and two buttons, one for jumping and one for attacking. The graphics are well drawn with Joe and Mac displaying some very humorous facial expressions! The enemies that you'll encounter are guaranteed to make you smile!

Data East will not say whether or not Joe & Mac Returns will be released in America, but let's hope that it is! Let's!

VIRTUA COP by Sega

Virtua Cop features beautifully rendered vector graphics for added realism.

Here they are! The first pictures of Sega's latest installment in the Virtua series. This one is called Virtua Cop and it really looks cool. As you can see released on Sega's upcoming Saturn or 32X? Only time will tell! In the meantime, look for Sega's Virtua Cop to hit the arcades in the next few months.

Your enemies will come from all directions in this exciting adventure.

14 GAMES PREVIEWED!!!

Nosferatu, The Firemen, The Story of Thor, Aretha 2, Ultraman Super Fighters, Dragon Ball Z 3, Yuju Hakusho, Bomberman 6B, Shubibinman, plus the Tokyo Toy Show!!!

INTERNATIONAL NEWS

The video game scene is really heating up beyond belief. You'd better believe it, with the NEC 32 FX, Sega Saturn, and Bandai BA-X all up and running. At the Tokyo Toy Show one could see all of these new products.

The Saturn had a great showing with plenty of games shown on video, and a couple actually up and running.

The NEC 32 FX had two fighting games, Battle Heat and FX Fighter. These use new types of interactive cinema to play out the rounds of fighting.

The Bandai BA-X was an interesting system. It was pretty much like one of those choose-your-own-path books. A cartoon, like Dragon Ball Z 3 would play, then it would stop and give you a choice of what the character should do next.

Games like this for the BA-X let you choose the path of your heroes.

Almost two years after the original release date, Seta finally appears to have completed this gothic horror-action game. When you check out the intense screen shots, you'll have to agree that Seta poured a lot of time and dedication into getting the looks of the game perfect for capturing the spooky atmosphere of the vampire legend.

The hero of the game is John, a young man in Europe, out to rescue his love who has been kidnapped by Count Dracula. She will be a blood sacrifice for opening the gates of the netherworld. John must work his way through horrifying dungeons and castles infested with supernatural beasts and beings, not to mention deadly traps and maze-like corridors. (The game does share similarities with Prince of Persia, but the heavy, doom-laden atmosphere is entirely its own.)

The amount of detail in this game is simply amazing. For example, Seta prepared over 350 graphic patterns for portraying John's movements. In fact, they take up four megabytes out of the 16 in this game.

The backgrounds and creatures are all drawn with impressive detail, so much that it appears that digitized images have been used. It's been well worth the wait.

Use your fists to beat the undead minions back to where they came from.

The graphics of Nosferatu are unbelievable. Pictures don't do it justice.

It looks like Nosferatu will be worth the enormous amount of waiting we've done.

At the '94 Tokyo Toy Show, Koremi of Japan had a very nice surprise in the form of Spacernauts. Spacernauts looks like an interactive drama along the lines of Snatcher. In fact, the art style looks very similar. If you look at the pictures below, you'll notice that they look quite good. That's because Spacernauts is for the 3DO system!

While we weren't able to see a lot of this title, what we did see looked really cool. With Koremi behind this game, you can be sure that this will be as addictive a mystery as the great game Snatcher was.

If you have a 3DO, you'd better hope that this game hits our shores soon. Look for more on this in the future.

Spacernauts is set in the distant future where technology is advanced.

Spacernauts looks like it will be a mystery, much like the game Snatcher.

Ristar is a maverick hero who is out to save the planet Balge from the vile clutches of King Greedy. But it's not just the king who has grabby hands. Ristar gets about by grabbing hold of virtually anything and hauling it away. For instance, he can grab vines and branches to haul himself up and away. He can stretch out and snag handy items. He can even grab enemies, tug them close, and put them away with savage headbutts.

As there are no time limits, Ristar has time to explore the big stages to his heart's content. What's best, is that including bonus stages, there are 32 stages where Ristar can grab and hang out.

We'll have to see if he's going to grab a hold of Sonic's fame and glory. We'll just have to wait and see.

Stretch out your long arms to get to those inconspicuous pieces and items.

A GLIMPSE OF THE FUTURE...

This month we went to the Tokyo Toy Show where all the latest games and their systems were on display. Some of the hottest things to see were the Sega Saturn, the Bandai BA-X, and NEC's new 32FX. All of which were up and running. In terms of games, on the following two pages you'll be able to see what I think is the hottest stuff. Some of the best games included Super Parodius, Dragon Ball Z's, Ristar the Shooting Star, and Spacernauts. After all that, we still have some more mega-cool games in the regular International section.

Ristar looks like it's going to be even hotter than Sonic the Hedgehog!

Giant Bosses make Ristar's life a little bit harder. Each has a weakness.

Watch out for the holes. Giant serpent-like monsters appear out of them.

Perfect Eleven

Super Famicom
Sports
October	¥9,800

Konami, long known for their outstanding shooters and excellent action games, is rapidly becoming a major force in sports games. This cool soccer game joins their zoo Powerful Pro Baseball in the Live Broadcast series with impressive play-by-play announcements. Movements of the players are extremely realistic, capturing all the fine nuances of the sport including even leints and slides. When a player is fouled, he even rolls around on the ground in obvious pain while the culprit complains to the ref.

The playing field is viewed from an easy-to-see diagonal angle. Players are relatively big, making for easy passing, shooting, and defending on the lifelike football pitch. Add the ability to change playing conditions and characteristics of players, and you have what looks like a major contender for the best soccer game ever. Perfect Eleven definitely scores.

Perfect Eleven looks like it's going to be one of the best soccer games around.

Choose from plenty of teams; perfect for the picky player who must have it all.

Racing
September	Unknown Price

Sorry people, it's not the sequel to Super Mario Kart, but it may as well be. Other than the fact that the racing machines are motorcycles, there's very little to tell the two games apart. For example, there are eight different divisions, but there are actually only four types with different characteristics for acceleration, speed, and handling. For One-player Mode, the bottom part of the screen can be used for displaying the course map or showing the rearview with two mirrors, just like a bike. There are many types of tracks including dirt, asphalt, cobblestone, and ice.

One thing that is radically different is the Chicken Race, where you hammer your bike down a ramp and stop as close to the edge as possible without going over the end in a smoking ruin. This really gets your adrenaline pumping! Just right for racing fans.

In the One-player Mode, you can see the map of the race on the bottom screen.

Or, if you wish, the bottom can be used as a simulated rearview mirror!

Super Famicom
Shooter
November	¥9,800

The sequel to the wily hilarious, but hair-raising tough shooter is already headed over from the arcade scene. As the name suggests, this is a parody based on Konami's classic Gradius series of raunchy shooters. This time out Konami has expanded the selection of off-the-wall characters from four types to eight, including Big Viper and Lord British from Gradius, and Twinbee and Winbee from the Twinbee series. Other fighters include pairs of penguins, sunfish, octopuses, winged pigs, stick figures on paper airplanes, and even a couple of bunny girls on missiles!

"Demented" is the only word to describe the enemies, as things are completely out of the ordinary. Despite all the hilarity, this cart upholds Konami's reputation for great shooters.

This giant panda is one of the many comical Bosses you'll see.

All new traps and dangers await you amidst the hilarity.

Action

Unknown Release

Unknown Price

Does anyone remember Towering Inferno, that disaster movie about a skyscraper on fire from the '70s? Humkin, who made Septentrio (released over here as SOS by Sea Toku!) based on the movie Pozerden Adventure, sure does!

Mototech, a major chemicals manufacturer, is holding a Christmas party at their brand new office tower when a kitchen fire gets out of control. You play Pete, a veteran firefighter, who must enter the blazing building and snuff out the inferno. Pete is accompanied by Danny, his partner who is handy with an ax. (Danny is merely an option, but you couldn't ask for a better partner!)

The game is very dramatic with a fast developing scenario that requires Pete and Danny to make their way through intensely dangerous scenes. Here's your chance to be a hero.

Enter the fiery smoke-filled corridors, and try to put out the flames.

THE FIREMEN

Try to put the fire out before it spreads using your hoses and water guns.

Action RPG

Unknown Release

Unknown Price

Brand new from Sega, an action-RPG in the mold of the most excellent Zelda series. The hero of this big 2D-Meg quest is a young warrior who is equally adept at swordplay and archery. He is drawn with over 500 graphic patterns so his movements are extremely smooth and lifelike. He must fight many fantastic beasts in a magical, medieval setting where a magical, medieval setting where a dark cloud of evil has cast its soul-draught shadow. The hero must fight it out alone against almost hopeless odds with only the help of spell-casting spirits which he summons during battle.

Featuring a soundtrack by the master of game music, Yuzo Koshiro (whom we mistakenly credited for the not-so-great music of Streets of Rage 3, Bony!), the RPG shows strong potential of becoming an engrossing, all-night sensation.

Summon spirits to toss the vicious enemies some nasty spells.

Travel from place to place, defeating the maniacal monsters that attack.

You'd better brush up on your sword fighting, or you'll be mashed.

Fighting

September

Unknown Price

Not even a year after the 1.5 million-selling DBZ2 hit the streets, the sequel is already on the way. The cast of fighters has been updated to keep pace with the long-running TV anime series so there are several new characters. For example, one of the newly added characters is Son Goten, Goku's son who was not yet born when Goku died warring the self-destruction call away from Earth. Another new face is Dabula, a demon helping the twisted mage Babidi set free an ancient god of destruction. Besides the new characters, some familiar fighters also return, including Son Gohan, now a high school student, and Goku back from the dead for one day only—hello included.

Bandai promises that the game system will also undergo some modifications to really turn up the heat of this already exciting fighting series. Count on seeing a blowout on this one soon!

The Split-screen Mode is still here, so you have more fighting options.

All the backgrounds are new, and the characters look better than ever.

RPG

Unknown Release

Unknown Price

Although numbered "2," this is actually the fifth in Yasaman's popular RPG series. (The "2" refers to the fact that this is the second game on the SFC—the first three were on Game Boy.)

The story picks up where the first SFC Aretha left off. The heroine, Ariel, is the Queen of Aretha who is leading her people to rebuild her shattered nation. However, a letter arrives from her close friend, Doll, a young but powerful mage, begging for her help. She is torn between her duties as a leader and her loyalty to her friend. In the end, friendship prevails and she sets off to a mystical underground world in search of Doll, not knowing that she will become embroiled in a long and fantastic journey.

Yes, folks, another decent looking RPG that probably won't make it over here. Arrrr! We need more RPGs!

Ariel gets the message from her friend Doll that she needs help.

Once Ariel enters the underworld, her epic journey begins.

GAME BOY

¥3,800

Ultraman, the best known of all Japanese live-action superheroes, takes on all comers in this hot cart that combines side-scrolling action, fighting, and even shooting. U-man's quest to become the top fighter in the universe is helped along by later Ultra generations including Ultra Seven, New U-man, Ace, Taro, and even the not-so-popular Leo. The Ultra crew's foes include many classic monsters like Red King, Baltan, and a whole slew of lesser known monsters that bring tears of nostalgia to these eyes. Despite being for the Game Boy, the action is hot and heavy with Street Fighter II-type power moves and energy beam attacks.

Using the Super Game Boy adapter, you can check out the wicked action in decent colors, too. Ultra fans should definitely take note. It will really bring back memories.

Fight terrible monsters like Red King. Use your powers to defeat them.

Your adventures will put you up against all sorts of giant creatures.

One of the classic side-scrolling characters of the PC-Engine lineup is ready to hit the screens of the Super Fami. Known to marry Duo owners as Shockman, this game gives you control of two main characters that were cybernetically enhanced to battle with all kinds of crazy evil-doers. The style of the game is a weird blend of Mega Man game play crossed with the art styles of Guster Heroes.

Fighting Cinema Style

Like Shining Force, the very well animated cinemas produce a sense of drama.

Mission Battles

You will be given mission instructions, an example of which is protecting villagers as they flee from an attack.

Setting Camp

When you set up camp, you can do a number of things. You can save your game, discuss situations with your companions, and rest up for future battles.

Alignments

Your alignment will change depending on how you complete your missions. It also affects who will join you.

Ain McDougall

A wolf-like creature who has powerful strength.

Brian Stillbird

The main hero and best overall fighter.

Dora Sisteel

The same species as Ain, she uses a crossbow.

For the first time ever, the programming team that gave us the unique Shining Force series of games for the Sega Genesis is hard at work on a Super NES title. The name is Feda, and the game is really looking hot (and that's putting it mildly)!

The story starts out casting you as Brian, who with your two companions Dora and Ain, have deserted the empire that has taken the Seuderia Continent by brute force. Once belonging to the elite imperial fighting force Bloody Rose, you are now being pursued by this same bunch for being traitors.

Unlike Shining Force where the object was to kill everything, the object here is to meet actual mission objectives that require a specific task to be completed.

Also, depending on how the missions turn out, your party's alignment can change in nine different ways. This will affect what characters will join or leave your party!

THE DOOD

A good blend of strategy and RPG elements that aren't too repetitive. The mission objectives work well.

THE BAO

The cinemas at present are not nearly as cool looking as the Shining Force battles were.

THE DOLY

Is it just me, or is the logo of the game just a little close to our Zelda box art?

The graphics blow away ordinary 16-bit, in fact, they're even better than most 32-bit games! The 32-Meg game has Donkey Kong and his adventurous son exploring their island home.

Ever since Donkey Kong came out in the arcades (Stupid Kong in Japan...), everyone has loved this big ape. While Mario came away from the game to achieve fame, it seemed like Donkey Kong was forgotten.

Donkey Kong Country plays like a Mario game. It has dozens of giant levels, each teeming with hidden places to find. You can even ride on animals!

This is the biggest and best Nintendo game ever. It has to be seen to be believed. Watch out, 'cause Donkey Kong is back!

ICEMAN HAS BEEN ICED!

Fol all of you sports fans who read the previous EGM issue, where Iceman introduced himself as the sports guru, there's been a change. Iceman mysteriously disappeared the day after he finished the issue. It's rumored that he was heading south, maybe to Mexico. No one knows why he left. It's a big lot to us, but more so for The Rookie. The only reason that I can think of as to why he left is that he's training in every event for the next summer Olympics. If that's the case, we may see him in action. But for now, I've been called to take his place. My name's Jacques Iich, formerly of France. Now it's my duty to give you information on upcoming sports games, new sports technology in the game industry, and our next sports game news with the help of The Rookie, of course. Plus, we will be reviewing the games, if they're finished. So, as a sports guru myself, we will try to give you the very best info on this topic. Check out the upcoming games in the following pages.

HEY, WHAT DO YOU KNOW? MORE SPORTS GAMES!

First of all, we'll start by showing you the latest sports games that will be released in the future. Sega has produced another football game for the Genesis that may be recognizable from the later Joe Montana Football games—some features are noticeably similar—now called College Football's National Championship. With the Zoom feature, Drive through the underground tunnel in Star Race FX. Watch for the dolphins!

Turn on your Sega Genesis and get set to roll with Rock 'N' Roll Racing.

experience the very best action in a football game. Talking about football games, Tradewest is releasing Troy Aikman Football. It looks great and the hard-hitting action is excellent. It's going to be a competitive season for football games as the season of the gridiron is coming up.

-GENESIS- COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Tradewest's Troy Aikman. The perspective views of the field are different as is the size of the players. Check out the following pages for more pix on these exciting new football games and decide which one you think will come out on top.

-Super NES- TROY AIKMAN

Let's move on, shall we? Rock 'N' Roll Racing has finally hit the Genesis, which will be compatible to the Edge 16. It has cool tracks, especially on the higher levels. The game is still in the works, but it shows that interplay can produce exciting sports games.

Another eye-catching racing game is Star Race FX (reviewed on the next page). This racing game uses the same FX chip which StarFox used. This chip will definitely increase the graphics performance in games to come.

"What about baseball games?" you ask. Tecmo will soon be releasing Tecmo Super Baseball, a baseball game that will stand out from the rest. Another baseball game is World Series Baseball for the Game Gear that will keep this portable going strong. Like the Genesis version, there will be a lot of options for you to pick from. Hook up with a friend and double the fun.

Tecmo Super Baseball uses many new features to stand out from the rest.

Atari fans, worry no further. Atari is releasing a racing game called Racine Racing, a virtual reality-like racer that, very well may be the best racing game on the Jaguar. Another title for the Jag, from Telegames, is Brutal Sports Football (pictured below). This strange football game will soon be out. Look at later pages for previews of these Atari games.

Telegames' Brutal Sports Football is not your ordinary football game. You can use weapons like swords against your opponents.

Hey sports fans! Get ready to see the new FX chip at work. Stunt Race FX has great new features that take advantage of the FX chip.

First of all, the rotation and scrolling of the graphics are too cool to be missed. Fast-paced racing will keep your heart pumping around those sharp corners, and your stomach creeping up on upcoming hills. As far as I can see, Stunt Race FX is an average racing game. It shows that the FX chip is still young and needs some improvement. Scrolling and rotation of the graphics are as amazingly good for the FX chip as the sound is decent. The controls will take time to get used to, and car handling on turns is over exaggerated. the defensive and offensive aspects. You will also have to learn the audible plays in order to fool your opponents during crunch time. You can even increase the plays in the playbook by flipping the plays—meaning the positions of the players is reversed. Troy Aikman Football puts many options and features at your disposal. First off, the players on the field are too small. It's hard to run the ball through while not knowing where you are running. I like the different plays you can pick from, but it was too easy. I can use one play for the whole game. The graphics are good, but the sound is not so good. The game is too easy. Cool with that, but the graphics that affect your field performance. Not a bad game.

80%

It's a very good game, but it needs more plays for the playbook, even though you can flip 'em. The min-players are hard to handle through a crowd. Playing offense and defense is very easy. Playing the entire season was just a bonus. It's a good game, but it's a great game. Good job, Williams Entertainment!

HIT THE ROAD JACK!

First, pick which car you can afford. Check out the colors of your favorite.

Rock N' Roll was first seen on the SNES, and the version on the Genesis is its equal. With fast-paced racing and the awesome sound effects, R'N'R will surely get racing fans off their butts and into the store.

There are so many awesome tracks to race on. First, race in the easy levels where you can complete for money to purchase your vehicle's performance by buying upgraded parts. If you feel that the early level is starting to be a breeze, try advancing to the next level and see if you can handle racing against the big boys. Pick from a variety of drivers from distant places, each having different performance levels and driving skills.

How does one win races? Well, you collect money after each race, the amount depending on how well you do.

As you race on the track, watch out for the high ramps. Try not to crash.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL'S NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

CRUNCH FEST!

Look at today's matchup, and check out the weather and field conditions.

Sega can make sports games!

College Football's National Championship follows in the footsteps of the Joe Montana Football series in the trademarks of the game play and the special features like the Zoom feature and the similarity of the players on the field, this time with the college teams involved. All of the college teams are here with their current team's stats and rankings. Some features like the weather conditions and the play-by-play commentator have been added as well for your playing enjoyment!

The Zoom feature enables you to be closer to the action. Watch out for the tacklers!

The referees will always be there to make those close calls. Make sure you don't commit too many penalties on the field.

The game play mechanics are also the same as in the Joe series—very easy. Pick from a variety of plays from the play-book and initiate them on the field. The offense perspective may be tricky for starters, and you may have to get used to the Zoom feature. You see small players at first, then you have to adjust to big players when the action zooms in. You will also have to learn how to use the passing cursor. You may either pick the Auto Mode, allowing you to pass the ball directly to your receiver, or choose the passing cursor which enables you to pass the ball wherever you want. It will take time, but it is effective.

There's nothing bad to say about this one. Just play your best and hope that your team can handle the opponent's offense.

If you're looking for a multi-player football game, this could be the one for you. Compatible with the Team Player, it enables you to hook up more pads or sticks and play against or with your friends.

I'VE ENTERED A SAVAGELY BRUTAL, YET STRANGELY FAMILIAR WORLD. NOW I MUST ELIMINATE THE EVIL SARLAC, FREE MY PEOPLE AND HEAL THIS TORTURED LAND. MY ENEMIES SURROUND ME. I FEEL THEIR DEMONIC PRESENCE AND SMELL THEIR PRIMAL STENCH. ALL HELL IS ABOUT TO BREAK LOOSE...

THE NEED FOR SPEED

Choose from a variety of options like weather conditions and car performance.

Last seen in EGM #57 as a Special Feature called Checkered Flag 2, this game now is being called Redline Racing. As expected of the Atari Jaguar's capabilities, Redline Racing shows off its high-speed polygon graphics. And yes, this is only the beginning of what's coming out for the Jaguar.

Several features really stand out:

Watch out for those sudden turns. You may end up crashing into the obstacles.

The flow of the graphics are done smoothly and look realistic, especially when you change your view from the cockpit to another exciting view. Try using the overhead view, and you can see upcoming sharp turns, or cars that are ahead of you.

The scaling and rotation of the backgrounds and the roads are unbelievable. Too cool! I can't wait to see this game finished and out on the market. Another feature is the ability to change your car's performance in the Options Screen.

Redline Racing features some of the best scenarios, cool settings of the buildings in the background world as you make turns.

the road better. These features are only a sample of what you'll be getting in the intense racing game.

Even though Atari hasn't brought out that many games, the quality of these games is improving. The system is still young and it will develop to produce far greater games with highly detailed graphics. Hopefully we'll be seeing more games like this. We realize that Atari has a definite future in the game industry. Atari has shown its colors. Good job!

With high-speed polygon graphics, you can feel every turn and upcoming hill.

Change your tires, wing, and steering type. Also in the Options Screen, you'll be able to view the weather, which allows you to make any changes on your car to compensate for the current weather, which will undoubtedly affect the road conditions.

One more factor is how the track is laid out. Some tracks may have very sharp sudden turns. For these, you may have to change your tires so that you can grip

BLOOD ... NO FOUL

Pick up items on the ground, like a sword, and inflict damage on your opponent.

This isn't your ordinary football game at the park. If you're looking for a clean and regulated football game just keep walking until you find one. Brutal Sports Football takes place in another world where Vikings, rams, and wizards make up a football team. Anything can happen here and the scoring of points is quite different from what you're used to.

First of all, the main secret to winning a game is to score in your opponent's goal by either running in the goal or kicking it. But wait, it's not that easy. The defending side had some tricks up their sleeves. Anything goes. Blood? No foul! You can trip, tackle, stomp, and even slash your opponent with a sword, which you can pick up from the field. That's not all you can pick up, so always look at the field

Make sure you keep your eyes open so you don't miss valuable items on the field and take advantage of what's being offered. Let's get back to the sword action. One way to stop the other team's offense from scoring is by using the sword you've found and giving them some of the worst peppercuts they have ever had. Of course, there will be blood everywhere. If you're playing on the offensive side, you can pick up a shield and block your opponent's sword attacks. Or, you may pass to another teammate

There are two ways of scoring a goal. You can either run the ball in or kick it in.

who is free, and run for an easy touch-down.

The fundamentals of this game may very well be mixed with soccer—a soccer game that allows you to use your hands and and sharp weapons. The game play is very easy, both on the offensive and defensive perspectives. It may not exactly be your ordinary football game, but it excites folks who are seeking something different in a game—very different. Also, with a game that doesn't have regulations to stop the game during play, the intense action doesn't stop until the very end. It makes for some interesting situations, to say the least!

It's not how you win or lose the football game, it's just how much your opponent ones after being beaten!

ONE, TWO, THREE—YOU'RE OUT!

The Genesis version was great. Now that Sega has made it for the Game Gear, I feel that I have to see it in action.

First of all, this is an excellent transition to the portable. Picked from all 28 teams from the National, American, and Central divisions. Because it is sponsored by MLBPA, you get to see the current baseball greats and their stats. It doesn't stop there, either. You can play in a pre-season game or go all the way and participate in the full season bonanza.

There will be four stadiums you will be able to pick from, both indoor and outdoor. The stadiums are different, and each stadium varies in size. The bigger they are, the harder you'll have to hit in order to send one out of here. What else

Check out the action on the field. The animations of players' moves are great.

At the beginning of the game you'll have to choose a team from all 28 teams in the baseball league. After deciding which team you want, choose what stadium you would like to play in.

Can you ask for a baseball game with a portable's capability? Oh, there's more. The action is incredible, watch the batters hit one out of here. Following the home run hits, Sega has awarded you with some cool cinemas.

Looking for someone to play against? Why not invite a friend who has the same game and plug two Game Gear units together. You'll be able to play against your buddy and see who's the best gamer on the block.

As long as Sega keeps making great games like this for the Game Gear, this system will be around for a while and will keep consumers coming back for more. If you're looking for a baseball game for your Game Gear, this is the one to get. You can never turn down America's pastime.

Way to go! Watch the home run cinemas after hitting one out of here.

The action is great, right down to the pitching. Game players will be amazed at how well Sega has made this game. Very realistic.

ICONS

This operates the bridges and can be used repetitively.

The hover bomb has the ability to blow open doors and kill enemies.

The vial contains an elixir that replenishes your life 100 percent.

This is a wasp bomb that you control. It can be detonated on command.

During Sarfo's attack on Stonelot, King Marco sends his son, Kyle, to Earth with the lightstone to keep its powers away from Sarfo. You return 20 years later to free the slaves of Sarfo and to take your kingdom back. In many ways, this game is very similar to the ever popular Flashback and Out of This World. The animation and music are top-notch, and it even has a screen saver. The controls, in comparison to Flashback, are a lot easier to master. The best part of the game is that you can actually hide from the enemies in the shadows.

S insight from the hilarious cartoon comes The Ren & Stimpy Show: Time Warp! This time around our heroes get their own time machine from the devious Muddy Muddskipper after collecting 47 million Grity Kitty proofs of purchase. Our poor friends become lost on their first time out however, giving Muddy the chance to steal it back.

This Ren & Stimpy Show is a blast to play thanks to its two-player simultaneous action. This game is loaded with items, attacks, and even hidden games you can play. When Ren and Stimpy team up, they can use special attacks that cause massive damage. Even Powdered Toast Man is here to lend a hand. Joy! The graphics and sound effects are top-notch and will keep you rolling on the ground in hilarious fits of laughter.

THE GOOD

The animations of the characters are some of the best I've ever seen.

THE BAD

This is a very early copy of the game so I really can't form a bad opinion about it.

THE DDLY

Have you ever seen a cat pick its ear? I almost lost my lunch. Keerpees Man!

Team up! Stimpy's back in this one so you and a buddy can thwart Muddy Muddskipper's plans together. The Team Mode also lets you do special attacks.

When Ren's eyes and Stimpy's nose glow red they can perform devastating special attacks. Luckily, Ren's giant fist and Stimpy's megal-hairball don't hurt each other.

YOU FILTHY SWINE!

Hilarious animations are one of the best parts of the game. Ren attacks with a Super Slap while Stimpy hooks up a hairball. Muddy Muddskipper doesn't stand a chance!

LEVEL 1

Mosquitoes are some of the biggest pests in the game. Practice as much as you can in your backyard because they're everywhere. Ren's special attack is a great way for him to knock down fences safely.

BOSS ONE

The end of Level One is guarded by two giant guard dogs. The good news is that you only have to take one on at a time. The bad is that you'll be doggy treats if one ever gets the jump on you. Two special moves will send 'em whimpering back home. They're so stupid!

BOSS TWO

The goofy Zookeeper is waiting for you at the edge of the city. The toughest part about fighting him is trying to stay clear of all the mer-holes and happy helmets. A good special move or two and he's toast—powdered toast, that is.

LEVEL 1

Level Two takes you into the city where you'll face flying sea gulls, fire chiefs, falling walruses, and the mother of all monsters—the Crockastmple. Look out for special items and hidden bonus games.

HIDDEN BONUS GAMES!

*"It's lo-og, it's lo-og!
It's big, it's heavy, it's wood.
It's lo-og, it's lo-og!
It's better than bad it's good."*

As an extra bonus, this game has included some special bonus games that you may remember. They include: Log Men, Spece Log, Log Wer, and Log Invaders. Each game has multiple stages as well.

Kids Loves Log.
Log from Bllemmo.

For thousands of years the virtuous Dragon Clan used its unique powers to maintain world peace. But the members of the Clan were only human, and in time they succumbed to the powers of Tyr, an evil sorceress who promised them limitless power. The clan split into two factions, the Light and Dark Dragons, each of which was bent on dispatching the other. Clan members engaged in non-stop attacks, literally changing the face of the world. Civilization was on the brink of extinction. In order to save the world from total destruction, a hero—one of the Light Dragons—was sent to dispatch Tyr. In time he was joined by others who shared his courage and vision...

The Hero

Start the game with this character. In addition to being a swordsman, he also likes fishing.

Nina

Nina has excellent White Magic abilities, but her regular attacks are a bit weak.

Karn

He opens locked doors and has the magical ability to merge fighters into one.

Bo

Bo is a skilled bowman. He is the only character who can hunt for meat.

Fish for valuable items in fishing holes located throughout.

Transform into the bird and travel to exotic places in the land.

If you have Karn in your party, he will unlock many doors for you.

Place Bo at the head of the party to hunt for much-needed food.

Prepare for combat...

There are several enemies varying in power. Beat an enemy and they'll leave you experience points and gold.

MAGIC:
Pick a spell to use.

BAG:
Lets you use items.

Meet many people and unusual creatures. Some will give you valuable information about what's ahead.

Things to do...

There are six keys scattered throughout the game that you must find in order to finish the quest.

THE GOOD

Excellent graphics with great detail. Very good audio effects and soundtrack. Intriguing story.

THE BAD

Some of the tasks that need to be done are not really explained very well.

THE UGLY

MINOUS Bosses throughout entire game. They are drawn well, though.

Mogu

Mogu burrows underground finding hidden items. Has few magic spells.

There are several designated areas where Mogu can dig.

Gobi

A hustler, he has excellent underwater magic, but is useless on land.

Turn into a big fish and the party can ride without being attacked.

Ox

Ox smashes rocks and other large objects with his awesome power.

Knock some health-replenishing fruit from trees with Ox's power.

Bleu

Known as the Snake Lady, Bleu has several magic spells.

Find Bleu, the serpent creature, and use her powerful magic.

Places to go...

The Inn:

For a price, you can stay the night at an inn which is located in every village. After your rest, all the health and magic of your party will be restored.

Save the Game:

Go to these little huts which are also located in villages and a man inside will ask you to tell him a story. He actually asks if you want to save your game.

A hunting we will go...

As you wander about the countryside, you will encounter several forms of wildlife. Bo is the only one who can kill wildlife with his bow and arrow. When Bo has successfully made a kill, the entire party will be rewarded with something left behind by the fallen animal. The deer will leave an antler, which is used as an antidote. The boar leaves meat, which is used to replenish the party's health. There are also other prey that can leave more needed items behind.

After enrolling in the academy, you can go to class, go on a science mission, batch some shuffles, work in the barracks, go out at the cafeteria and DIB with fellow crewmen, or go to combat training.

On your first mission aboard the Oberth class science vessel, you learn there is radioactive debris falling into the atmosphere of the planet Beta II.

On your approach to Beta II, begin your search for the falling debris.

The debris is radioactive! Raise your shields and activate your tractor beam at once!

Once in tow, carry the debris away from the planet in order to destroy it.

That's it for this mission. Once the debris is destroyed, return to the starbase.

Pressing Select Aboard the Starship will give you access to the Helm, Engineering, Science, and other stations necessary for safe passage.

Super Godzilla combines strategy with action to give you an exciting game that keeps you riveted to the screen. Only you can save mankind. Do you have the strength?

THE GOOD

Everything, from the music to the plot, screams Godzilla. This game is a must for rubber monster fans.

THE BAD

The monsters, especially Biolarie and Mecha-Godzilla, zone you to prevent you from doing your special moves.

THE UGLY

After sleeping for millions of years, it's no wonder why his breath is blue. Time to gargle, isn't it?

Something that appears to be Godzilla is attacking Mount Fuji!

Biolarie: created out of cells taken from Godzilla, this plant monster wreaks havoc.

Battro: it's a flying moth that can't be hit by ground-based attacks!

King Ghidra has entered Oosaka Guide Godzilla through the streets. Look for blue buildings; they'll give you radioactive energy. The yellow places give you advice and items. Ghidra can be found at the big red dot on the map.

ITEMS

King Ghidra fires energy beams with his three heads! Try to get in close.

SUPER GODZILLA

BEWARE!

FROM THE CREATORS OF THE 7TH SAGA...

BRAIN LORD

Strange visions crowd my mind...
Really or Brain?

This place seems to go on forever.
There must be a way out...

The door is locked! I can't get out!
I guess this is it...Be or Die Lord!

My father is dead. Everyone thought he was crazy. I didn't.

We believed that long ago, men rode the skies on the backs of dragons. They were called Dragon Warriors. Now, all the dragons have vanished. My father spent his lifetime searching for dragons...a life spent in vain. Now, I am the only descendant left. It is up to me to find the missing dragons.

They say only the gifted can unlock the secrets of the many mazes that lie before me. "If you don't go crazy, you'll go insane." Whatever that means. It has been thousands of years since anyone has seen the dragons. I doubt I will live that long. I have a scrap of paper someone placed in my pack. I wish I knew who left it. Only one has written: "Are you a Brain Lord?"

I hope so...

Brain Lord

Tower of Light

This giant cockroach is the Boss of the tower. He will run around as you hit him, throwing out little roaches. Follow him around and dodge his babies. Strike him when he reaches the corners and you will find him dead sooner than you think.

This Boss is like a huge magnet sucking you underneath him and taking your life. When he starts to suck you toward him, you must turn around and keep jumping. That will keep you from getting too close to this huge piece of junk metal.

The game begins with a flashback to when you were a child watching your father leave to battle against evil.

THE GOOD

There are a lot of puzzles you must solve to get through certain rooms, making this a unique RPG.

THE BAD

To be honest, this game is really good and I don't have anything bad to say about it.

THE DUD

The first Boss in the Tower of Light is a huge cockroach, and man, do I hate them roaches!

Brain Lord is a fairly unique RPG. You must push objects around in various rooms to activate buttons on the floor and open the door. There are a whole bunch of items, magic, weapons, armor, and items to collect and use. Find items throughout the game that will be delighted to fly in and help you fight the enemies. Some even give you life back and raise defensive and offensive power. What more could you ask for? The very same people that brought you The 7th Siege are now bringing you Brain Lord. The town scenes look almost identical. Watch for this magical game!

With an axe you can break the rocks in the cave and find items hidden throughout this strange town.

This game has a lot of graphics that are similar to 7th Siege. The town and dungeon graphics look similar to 7th Siege's, but the fighting style is definitely different. Both have unique objectives, and look very intriguing.

Dynamite Headdy is one heck of a game. There are so many different things you can do. First there are over 10 different power-ups in the form of your head. You use your head to defeat the enemies and reach new horizons. You have heads ranging from a hammer-head, to a blower that blows stars out of your nose, to a vacuum head that sucks in all the enemies on the screen. Most are very hilarious looking. There are a lot of amusing jokes throughout the game to keep you chuckling. There seems to be a Boss around every corner giving you new enemies on every level. Some Bosses are extremely hard and take a little brain work to figure out a pattern and then attack. This game is huge, so you won't find everything the first time through. There are plenty of hidden secret rooms to get more bonus points at the end of the level. This is definitely a game to watch out for.

DYNAMITE HEADDY

This robot has busted into your town and is causing havoc. He's grabbed you but he will lose his grip. Once he drops you, run with all of your might. He'll start grabbing your friends and then you. Beat him up and make him drop your friends.

In the Bonus Stage you must hit the baskets with your head and make baskets to score points. Get enough and you'll get a secret number.

Mega Amounts of Power-ups!

You can change your buttons around to best suit you. Check out some of the cool music and sounds of this game.

This head does double the damage when you need to pack a punch.

Turn into a miniature version of yourself to get into those really small places.

Get some sleep and you can get back some of your precious life.

Get three shots off for the low, low price of only pressing a button.

Use this head to grab onto walls and ceilings to give yourself a boost.

This chicken head shoots very humorously but is pretty strong.

Turn into a bi-plane and you can turn around and fire at enemies behind you.

This laser is a great weapon when you need to shoot directly ahead of you.

Go through these doors and beat the skill test.

This dragon type Mid-Boss is very simple to beat.

Hit this guy lots of times to release your friends.

This part has a shooter mixed in with all the other exciting action, making a cool level.

This merionette Boss is pretty tough. He keeps changing clothes, each one giving him different powers. Watch the little target guy and he'll tell you what part of the puppet you need to hit next.

Keep this girl's back to your girlfriend so she can throw the keys in her big old backpack.

Get on this wheel and then shoot it with your head to make it revolve in the right direction.

This Boss spins the floor around, placing you on the other side of the arena. This makes it very hard to play but extremely cool looking. Hit him in the face when his arms are stuck in the ground.

This level rotates. Spin it around like a top to find the orange head and move on up.

This stage is tricky because the floor moves in an awkward way to make you fall into the lava.

Collect all of the T's to get extra continues. You need all of the continues you can get.

Do you think this guy likes the game? Sounds like it to me. I think I'm going to buy this game. All the different power-ups and neat levels make this game lots of fun to play!

This girl comes out and takes the key after you beat the level Bosses. See if you can find out why she takes it.

This end Boss is tough unless you grab the Time Stall Head and freeze him. Once he is frozen in time, gank him to death.

The baby face Boss is easy if you keep your distance. Destroy all three forms of this Boss and you can move on.

THE GOOD

This game has excellent graphics, a good soundtrack, and really cool voices. I even like the control.

THE BAD

The bad thing is I don't like having to wait for an excellent game like this to be released in stores.

THE UGLY

Watching poor Heeddy run around in terror when something scares the heebie-jeebies out of him.

ESCAPE FROM MARS

Marvin the Martian is bored. He needs a new addition to his intergalactic Zoo. Any guesses who the new addition is? That's right, that furry little fuzball is back, and he no longer fights for Tazmania. Now he's trying to find his way home. Taz has a few new weapons to eat and the armadillos are superb. The game is not for the weak-willed, however. It's one harsh trip back to Earth, and you're along for the ride!

As we join Marvin the Martian, he seems to be engrossed in a book of some kind.

What would he be looking for in a book about new Earth creatures? A new pet?

Oh no ... not him ... anything but him!!! He eats trees for goodness sake!!! That's just wrong!

The first level puts you smack dab in the middle of the intergalactic Zoo. Watch out, there are other animals to worry about besides tank men, large red goaths, and other members of Marvin's leckays.

One of your best weapons is your spin. Use it to break walls as well as kill enemies.

A valuable asset is the Taz status. These are checkpoints where you will continue from.

You will find these glass casings from time to time. They will teleport you to different places.

He's done it now! Taz has dragon breath, which is a good short-range weapon.

Rocks have to be hard on a nervous system! A good long-range weapon.

The first aid kit will give you the most energy back. This is very helpful.

Fruit

The fruit will almost always give you a good bit of energy back.

Ram

The ram has less energy than the fruit, but more than the hamburger.

Shrink Drink

This is useless. It makes you unable to attack or pick things up.

As was said before, one of your best assets is the spin. Another good use is "wall bouncing."

Press the spin button and the jump button at the same time and move to the left or right.

This will bounce you to the top of a smashed group of walls. From there you can move forward.

Another use for the spin besides breaking walls and killing enemies is clinging on to pipes.

Just hold down the spin button and move either left or right; the choice is usually yours.

Watch how fast you go. Sometimes you'll blur right into an enemy or a cracked pipe without even knowing.

THE GOOD

Great animations! This looks like it came straight from the Looney Tunes vault!

THE BAD

I have never gotten this frustrated with a game. The Level Two Boss is in a realm beyond impossible.

THE UGLY

Even years ago, video game manufacturers were experimenting with the possibilities of laser disk games. One of the first to be released, and certainly the most remarkable of those laser disk games was Dragon's Lair. Dragon's Lair is an epic story of a bumbling knight on a quest to rescue his fair princess from the clutches of a fire-breathing dragon, appropriately named Singe. Your goal is to survive a long and tedious journey through a castle which is loaded with numerous pitfalls and traps. Dragon's Lair plays more like a movie than it does a video game, and the animation is equal if not better to a Saturday morning cartoon. It may take you a little while to get used to the way the game controls, but be warned—once you do, the game becomes very addictive! Good luck.

DIRK THE DARING

OUR FEARLESS LEADER

Singe has captured the voluptuous Princess Daphne and it's up to you to save the day!

When you first encounter Singe, listen to the princess for tips on how to defeat him.

He will try many times to stop you from making it out of the castle alive! Go Dirk!

If you plan on defeating the mighty dragon, you'll need to grab the magic sword.

When Singe is defenseless, grab the sword and thrust it deep into his chest!

THE GOOD

This is the best adaptation of an arcade game ever! Graphics and animation are superb. Excellent!

THE BAD

Now that I've got Dragon's Lair fever, I can't wait until they bring out Dragon's Lair 2: Time Warp.

THE DOLY

The 3DO and Sega CD versions don't compare to this one. This one will definitely be worth the wait!

EGM X-TRA DARE TO COMPARE

A LOOK AT OTHER FORMATS...

This is the third time Dragon's Lair has been released for a home CD-based system. It is also the best version so far! The Sega CD version suffers from lack of control and grainy graphics. The 3DO version has good control, but the graphics and the sound just can't match up to the incredible job that was done on the CD-I. Thumbs up!

MEGA MAN V

Mega Man is as cool as ever in his newest installment for the GB games. This being the fifth installment you might think it is getting a little repetitive, but that's where you would be wrong. Mega Man V has a whole new cast of robots to put your blaster to the test. In fact, they are so strong that Dr. Light has to build you another blaster just so you can do damage to them. This sequel even has money, or PC points, which allow you to buy new power-ups from Dr. Light. If you have a Super Game Boy, the game switches color every stage, giving an effect of almost 8-Bit quality.

This Boss returns from the very first Mega Man. He'll shoot at you and then his body parts will fly at you. Dodge them and hit his eye to waste him for good!

BOSS

THE GOOD

The graphics are like 8-Bit and if you have an SGB, look forward to a visual treat.

THE BAD

The game moves a bit slower than normal Mega Man, but that is understandable on a GB.

THE HOLY

My nails after biting them to the bone from the action and thinking involved in this game.

Capcom has even made a vibrant border for this game. If you are fortunate enough to own a SGB.

If you find all four of these jewels, Dr. Light will build you an item to reduce your power usage.

In this level, there are spots where the gravity is reversed. You'll either jump higher or lower.

Move over Sonic! Dynamite Heady from Treasure Software is about to make you re-think how you feel about action games on your Game Gear! This game is totally unique in the way it looks and plays. What makes it so different from other action games is that the levels are not set up with any pattern to them. Some levels have Mid-Bosses as well as the final Boss while others just have one. Along your way you'll find special power-up "headies" that grant you temporary powers such as the vacuum, pig hammer, and sleeping heads. Prepare to butt heads!

THE GOOD

This game really holds up to its big brother's masterpiece standard.

THE BAD

The what? This game is a blast. It could have been longer, though.

THE UGLY

Most of the Bosses in this game. Truly bizarre!

The first level in this game is pure speed. Use your noggin to smash your way through the pots that are in your path. Beware of the enemy airplanes that try to take you out from above. Just be sure to jump in time when they drop their bombs on you, and you'll live to fight another day.

In Level Two, boss your way through enemy territory as you collect hammer and pig nose power-ups. Enter the concert hall and face the end-level Boss!

The action gets really intense in this level. Take on the snake and the floating knight helm it. Fight for your life as a giant arm grabs you and takes you for a ride.

THE TOWER AWAITS!

Danger lurks in every step you take.

Power-ups a Heady could love!

Regain your energy by sleeping!

The Sword of Hajya

Game Gear role-players listen up! You've heard about the successful Shining Force series on the Genesis before, but because you didn't have one you probably thought, "I can beat one of those games in a day." Well guys, your list of excuses has just ended because the Force is back in Shining Force 2: The Sword of Hajya. This time around our unassuming hero, brought to the town of Cypress, helps in their struggles to bring peace back to land against the evil forces of Iom. SF2 (You know which one!) is a great mix of strategy and role-playing action.

When attacking with your magic, items, or weapons remember each fighter's strengths and weaknesses.

THE GOOD

An addictive story line and game play make this cert a treat for RPG fans.

THE BAD

The random chances in which you (and the enemy) get to escape or attack more than once.

THE ONLY

How cute everyone appears to be in this game!

The Battle Below the Cliff

Here is a map of Level 1-2. Your first goal is to take out the two goblins (1) on your right. Afterward you can cross the river in one of two places. Be careful not to get caught on the narrow bridge (2) or you're a goner. Also watch out for the two bats (3) as they can fly over the river. A pair of Scibens (4) and Drago Hweets (5) also guard the dwarf (6).

KILLER INSTINCT

Nintendo gave a special demonstration at the CES of two of their new Ultra 64 (formerly Project Reality) games. The first one, being developed by Rare, is a very detailed-rendered street fighting-type game.

Called Killer Instinct, this game features 10 characters each having specific traits and abilities. They are Meldown, a molten lava man; Chai! Thunder, an Indian with tomahawks; Jago, a martial arts man whose weapon is a fireball; War Wolf, a half man half wolf; Fulgora, a robot; Spinal, a skeleton; T.J. Combo, a boxer; and three more yet unnamed characters: a woman, an iceman, and a dog-type creature.

Each of the characters will have his/her own background and there will be a 'special effect' that can be implemented for each background. For example, Chai! Thunder's scene is a rope bridge over the Grand Canyon. The player can zoom in and out for a different perspective. T.J. Combo's scene will be a gym, and if the correct special move is executed by the player, you will be able to knock your opponent through the wall and into the street. Other backgrounds will include a 360 degree circular bouncer area, a pirate's room (Spinal) and city block streets (Jago?).

While far from complete, Killer Instinct will not live up to its name as there is very little blood and there will be no Mortal Combat gore. Further, the game will be a strategy/technique-type game, on the order of SF2. Combo's will be the main goal to accomplish and the project manager promised that the maximum attack, for the largest number of points, would be a 13-hit combo!

Nintendo expects this game to be available when the system is launched in the fall of 1995. An earlier arcade debut is possible but Nintendo wouldn't confirm a date. More next month!

Chai! Thunder's main weapons will be his powerful Tomahawks.

CRUIS'N' U.S.A.

In addition to Killer Instinct, Nintendo previewed Williams' new driving game for the Ultra 64 called Cruis'n' U.S.A. This game was much more complete as the sit-down version was fully operational (51 per race) and almost the entire course was programmed in. This game will probably be in the arcades early this fall and then everybody will be able to see what Nintendo's Ultra 64 is capable of.

Unlike KI, Cruis'n' was not as revolutionary a game. Looking more like a very detailed Outrun rather than the hot, new Daytona or ultra-fast Ridge Racer, Cruis'n' takes place over the two-lane highways of America starting in San Francisco and ending 14 segments later in Washington D.C.

An artist's drawing of the game screen in Williams' new Ultra 64 (Project Reality) arcade game, Cruis'n' U.S.A.

Like any racing game, you have your choice of four cars when you start: the red Italia P.69 (Ferrari look-alike), the silver Devastator D1, a brown La Bomba (old '90s car), or a 1963 custom yellow Corvette. Of course, you can select either a four-speed stick shift or an automatic tranny. The goal is to complete each of the segments in the allotted time. Do that, and you progress to the next segment.

Is this a representation of the capabilities of the Ultra 64? Perhaps. While looking good, it is more typical of first generation-type games. That is, they are OK, but not spectacular. Only after the programmers begin to understand the hardware, will we get to see some of the really great games. More on this next issue.

It's time you finally did something about those monsters under your bed.

3DO

You're not a helpless kid anymore. You've grown up and you've got Slayer, the first Advanced Dungeons & Dragons game on 3DO.

Now you're an AD&D game hero armed with weapons and magic, exploring dungeons filled with the deadly monsters of your nightmares.

Hack and slash away at these vile creatures, avoid treacherous traps and solve mind-bending puzzles.

The randomized dungeon generator can create over 4 billion different dungeons.

Which means a new monster hunt every time you play!

Jurassic Logo for NBA Expansion Team

A ferocious new animal was recently released into the world of the NBA as the Toronto Raptors, the league's newest expansion franchise, unveiled its hip new logo.

As the story goes, the logo-featured dinosaur is a highly evolved species of "Globraptor" (Latin for ball thief or ball robber.) Evolved from species like the velociraptor and oviraptor, the Globraptor is known for its breakout speed, its coordinated attack patterns, and ferocious team defense. With cunning intelligence and killer instincts, the Globraptor has been known to grow as large as seven feet tall.

Toronto's prehistoric mascot "Raptors" was chosen from over an estimated 100,000 entries submitted by 60,000 Canadians from nine of the 10 Canadian provinces. (Vancouver, home to the as of yet unnamed other NBA expansion franchise awarded to Canada, was, for obvious reasons, not allowed to participate.) The end result was a list of more than 2,000 different names from which to choose.

Entries ranged from meteorological phenomena like Blizzard, Thunder, Chill, and Freeze, to more game-related tags such as Sky, Swish, Jam, and Slam. Other dinosaur-related offerings included Rex, T-Rex, and Saurus Rex, as in TorontoSaurus Rex.

Toronto's "Name Game," sponsored in part by Sega and AST Computer, was the largest contest of its kind in NBA league history, casting a monstrous shadow over the previous record of 28,000 entries set by the Phoenix Suns way back in 1968.

While the Raptors don't hit the hardwood for over another year, Raptor merchandise is already hitting the sporting goods stores. With the introduction of a very cool logo and the still warm afterglow of last summer's blockbuster Jurassic Park look for Raptorwear to be some of the hottest selling stuff in sports apparel.

The Raptors begin their season in November of 1995. Said team president John Bitove, Jr., "We'll be the hungriest team in the NBA."

They'd better be, for when the first ball is tipped in 1995, the other 28 NBA teams will all be fighting to throw Canada's Toronto Raptors back into extinction.

Sega and Blockbuster Team to Bring You Games on Demand

It's your third trip to Blockbuster this week, and still no Mortal Kombat II. How many times has this happened to you? You end up either renting a game you didn't want, or you walk away empty-handed to spend another night with Sonic the Hedgehog.

Finally, it seems your troubles may be over. Sega of America and Blockbuster Video have announced plans to join forces to put an end to this retail rental nightmare.

The two companies are presently test marketing at select Blockbusters a system that permits video game software to be stored electronically at retail stores, and down-loaded on demand onto specially designed reprogrammable video game cartridges. The games would look and play exactly like the standard video game cartridge, but without the wait.

With the hottest new carts costing in the neighborhood of $45, the smartest shoppers are choosing trial by rental before dropping their dough up-front to discover that a game stinks. This system will get those people the games they want.

If all goes well with the test market, this type of system could be available to all rental retailers as early as next year.

Strange but True

The Road to Nirvana
Vancouver-based Grunge Enterprises is hoping to make a quick buck on the recent death of Kurt Cobain and the media home-calculation of Generation X. For a mere $20, fans can buy a memorial T-shirt featuring Cobain's hand-scrawled suicide note. Corporate exploitation still sucks!

Dog Day Afternoon for the Weiner
Hot dogs were given a bad rap recently when a study by California researchers linked hot dog consumption to leukemia. Of 464 kids studied, those who ate 12 or more hot dogs a month were more likely to develop leukemia than those who did not.

CAPTAIN'S QUARTERS

There's no need to pinch yourself, Trekkers. It's not that dream you've been having ever since the series finale. This is reality — or at least virtual reality.

That's right, Trekkers, Star Trek: The Next Generation Interactive Technical Manual, a CD-ROM title from Simon and Schuster Interactive, is a virtual exploration of the operations and inner workings of the legendary Starship Enterprise.

Comics Turn Hot Property in Hollywood

Without a doubt, comics have always had their niche in Hollywood. But until now, that niche has been pretty small. Only the big boys of comics were allowed to play.

The Man of Steel, Christopher Reeve, has on four occasions pulled on the red and blue spandex to make the world safe for democracy. The Dark Night returns to the big screen again next summer as the Caped Crusader (Michael Keaton) fights to save Gotham City from the wiles of the Riddler. Even Hollywood pretty boy Warren Beatty made a comic bid, donning the famed yellow slicker of comic's best known dick, the blunt-nosed Dick Tracy.

But the list ends right about there. Hollywood has taken stock in the Super Man of mainstream, knowing that familiarity breeds not contempt, but instead box office dollars. That philosophy is changing.

With the unforeseen success of The Crow, and the excitement surrounding The Shadow and the release of The Mask, Hollywood moguls have perked up their ears.

The Crow, based on the comic book by James O'Hair and starring the late Brandon Lee, is one of the summer's best box office surprises, having already grossed over $80 million in ticket sales.

Radio program turned comic book turned movie, The Shadow, starring Alec Baldwin, has been one of the most anticipated releases of the summer movie season.

The Mask, starring the rubber-faced funnyman Jim Carrey, is based loosely on a comic by the same name. With the rising star power of Jim Carrey and over-before-seen special effects from Industrial Light and Magic (the people who brought to life Jurassic Park), The Mask could prove one of the summer's biggest movies before all is said and done.

With an unending wealth of titles and characters, comics has a lot to offer. Hollywood is just now stumbling onto this realization.

Movie studios right now are aggressively seeking alliances in comics, and not just with the DCs and Marvels of the comics world, but also with some of the smaller publishers like Kitchen Sink Press, publisher of The Crow, and Dark Horse Comics, home to The Mask. Hollywood has discovered that the little guys have a lot to offer.

Comic titles presently in the works for film include Spider-Man, directed by Terminator 2's James Cameron, Stallone as Judge Dredd, and Teen Girl, the adventures of a cyber-punk heroine.

So Batman and Superman beware; your comic book brethren have landed in Hollywood.

Schwarzenegger Heats Up the Summer with Action-Packed True Lies

Take heart action fans ... Arnold Schwarzenegger is back ... this time in the huge action/comedy adventure True Lies.

For years it seemed, everything he touched turned to gold. From knockdown-drag out action flicks to comedy romps, Schwarzenegger had the Hollywood Midas touch. His star power could carry almost any film.

down nuclear terrorists. As spies go, Harry is as dashing and debonair as any 007. But with a wife and kid at home, Harry is not your typical James Bond. By day, Harry works to save the world from nuclear desolation. By night, he works to save a struggling marriage.

Jamie Lee Curtis co-stars as Harry's suburban housewife, day job.

But unlike Le Total, True Lies is much more than

Lies is a blend of tour de force comedy and in-your-face action. Cameron is a master juggler, strategically dropping jokes between explosions.

With a rumored budget of $120 million and shot over an arduous seven-month schedule, True Lies is a summer movie thrill ride, chock full of exploding jets, wild motorcycle chases, dangerous gunplay, and how-did-they-do-that stunts.

With True Lies heating up at the summer box office, Arnold Schwarzenegger is back on top and doing what he does best—kicking butt and taking names in movie theaters across the country.

Then last summer, Hollywood's big man took a giant-size stumble when the mega-hyped, monster budget Last Action Hero bit it at the box office.

But this box office Terminator who long ago made the promise, "I'll be back," is ready to make good on his word, this time around with a formula that seems guaranteed to spell success. Reuniting with Terminator 2 director James Cameron, the bad boys of action are back in the saddle again.

Schwarzenegger plays Harry Tasker, an international spy working to bring Helen. Through all their years of marriage, Harry has managed to keep his true line of work a secret. But when the pressures of the job heat up and the marriage starts to crumble, Helen starts looking elsewhere for a little intrigue of her own.

The movie also features Tom Arnold as Harry's best friend and partner at Omega Sector, the top secret government agency for whom they work.

True Lies is loosely based on the French film Le Total, a comedy about an international spy whose wife thinks he's a mundane

HEGHO

AND RETURN OF SUPERMAN™
THE VIDEO GAME
FROM SUNSOFT®
COMING IN AUGUST

NEVER LOAN OUT YOUR STICK.

"Hey, Big, since you're gonna be away, can I borrow your Fighter Stick for a few days? I promise—I take real good care of it..." That's how it starts. Then days turn into weeks, and the next thing you know, you and your former best friend are duking it out on the People's Court. One look at the Fighter Stick, and you'll know why. There's enough power here to change a person, to make 'em untrustworthy, even. There's Turbo-Fire and Auto-Turbo, with up to 36 shots per second. And super-slow-mo lets you digest those really tough moves.

So, quit wrestling with those boring, empty control pads—reach for the Fighter Stick SN for the Super NES or the Fighter Stick SGB, for Sega-Genesis and Sega-CD.
